JUNIORS WORK ON STAGE PLAY

Director Lavina May Lynch gave the members of the junior play cast "Here Comes Charlie" a time-out last week for the purpose of learning their lines before they begin practice on the stage. This week finds them hard at work and concentrating on both lines and action on the stage.

Friday evening, December 4, is the date set for the play, and it is hoped that the junior play this year will draw as large a crowd as "Mistakes at the Blakes" did last fall.

Romantic roles are played by Lowell Alford and Opal Null. Betty Jean Jackson and Janet Hodge portray the parts of a couple of battle-axes—Betty Jean, being Lowell's aunt by marriage, and Janet being mother to Dorothy Jordan and Jack Weber. Dorothy, by the way, is engaged to Lowell but is planning to marry him just for his money. Jack Weber remains extremely bored throughout the whole performance and yawns in everybody's face. Jack Rodgers plays the part of Lowell's pal and tries to steer him out of trouble. Aaron Stewart adds comedy in his portrayal of Uncle Aleck, the Ozark hill-billy who accompanies Opal Null as Charlie to her new home. A bit of Irish blarney is interspersed throughout the play by Velma McKinley and John McMullen.

The cast follows:

Mrs. Farnham	Betty Jean Jackson
Larry's Aunt	Nora Malone
Velma McKinley	The Irish Maid
Tim McGill	John McMullen

1943 Fertilizer Supplies

Foreseeing a record demand for commercial fertilizers in 1943, the Department of Agriculture reports that farmers generally will be able to get enough to meet production goals. Biggest pinch will be on nitrogen fertilizers, which can be offset with legume cover crops.

Girl Scouts Are Busy Lot

The Intermediate Girl Scouts are progressing rapidly in their activities, passing tests and earning badges. All the girls have now received their Handbooks which help them in outlining their programs.

The following girls have passed their tests and have now earned Second Class ratings: Diane Smith, Jinkie Wilson, Janice Daugherty, Jerrie Oviatt, Marilyn Miller, Patricia Berg and Janet Sprouls.

A business meeting is held each Thursday and the remainder of the meeting is given to projects and checking of activities. A Thanksgiving program, to be given at the U.S.O., November 19, is being planned. The scouts have invited their mothers to the entertainment. With the assistance of their leaders, Miss Thomas and Miss Hall, they have arranged a program, games will be played and lunch will be served.

Let's talk Turkey

Thanksgiving time is turkey time—and the turkey has to be one of the right type of bird... in adequate quantity for the feast... properly dressed... and definitely good. So to help you, let's talk turkey for awhile, as you will probably wonder

How much turkey you should buy

An easy rule is to provide 1/4 to a pound of turkey (dressed but not drawn) for each person to be served. Naturally, the larger the turkey, the more meat you'll have in proportion to bone. And it's really good economy to buy a turkey a few pounds heavier than you will actually need.

TIME FOR THANKSGIVING

This week's Julia Lee Wright article gives tips on organizing that Thanksgiving dinner so that you have time to enjoy it. A simple adaptable menu and recipes are also given in the GRADE—your quality guarantee.

Is there any homework to be done on a turkey drawn at the market?

It's your turkey from now until table time and it's wise to roast a turkey within 24 hours after it has been drawn. To get a turkey ready for stuffing, remove any pinfeathers, using a paring knife, a strawberry huller, or old sterilized tweezers. Remove the coarse feathers from the wing tips—pliers work fine—or cut off the wing tips. If any hairs remain, singe them off, using a gas flame or tightly twisted paper torch. Then scrub the outer skin of the turkey with a brush and warm water. Cut out the oil sac on top of the tail-piece and remove odds and ends of lungs and windpipe. Rinse inside and out with cold water; pat dry with paper towel or clean cloth. Mr. Turk is ready to be stuffed!

What is meant by a government graded turkey?

Government graders are impartial third parties who grade turkeys according to the way they meet certain stipulated government requirements. They mark each turkey with a tag showing the proper U. S. GRADE—your quality guarantee.
