

THE WAR AND BUSINESS

Trends

The controlled materials plan was well received on the occasion of its first public presentation at a meeting in New York, attended by more than three thousand business executives who followed closely throughout seven hours of explanation and question-and-answer periods. Approximately 300 of the participants prepared written questions during the morning session. These were sorted and duplications eliminated during the luncheon hours. Answers were given in the afternoon by a panel of WPB experts. Similar meetings to acquaint industry with the immediate requirements of CMP will be held in the twelve other cities where WPB has regional offices. These large meetings will be followed by smaller ones, to be arranged by many of the district offices which operate under the regional directors. The meeting in Portland will be at 9:30 a. m. December 8, in Lincoln high school auditorium.

Indicative of developing shortages of commodities of common use were the WPB orders requiring canners of citrus fruits and juices to set aside large percentages of their pack for the armed services, establishing monthly quotas of certain canned fruits and vegetables to govern deliveries by wholesalers, prohibiting production of whipping cream and lopping two or three inches of material from the length of shirt tails.

War Production Board

New vacuum cleaners, frozen in the hands of retailers and wholesale distributors, since October 24, were released for sale. Cleaners in the hands of manufacturers, their affiliates and "private brand sellers" holding more than 500 cleaners remain frozen. Another vacuum cleaner order prohibits the production of attachments for these machines.

Prices

To help retailers meet war-time conditions, the Office of Price Administration has authorized stores to drop many peace-time retail services without reducing their ceiling prices. As a guide to the stores, OPA has issued recommendations on savings in retail practices. These steps are part of the retailers for victory plan, which is designed to conserve necessary materials and facilities for the war effort and to free manpower for direct war production.

Maximum prices for the women's silk hose remaining on the market have been set in terms of dollars and cents for each type and grade of stocking. The action follows a similar regulation setting specific prices for nylon hose.

Retail and wholesale ceiling prices for new passenger car tires of reclaimed rubber have been set. For the more common sizes, prices range about 20 per cent under the prices for first-line tires of crude rubber tires no longer being manufactured.

Rationing

Rationing extends on two fronts throughout the country this week. Mileage rationing, designed to conserve rubber, begins December 1. Coupon rationing of coffee began this week with each person whose name is shown on his sugar rationing book as war ration book one as 15 or over entitled to one pound in the next five weeks.

Persons who do not have war ration book one—necessary for obtaining coffee as well as sugar—have until December 15 to apply to their local war price and rationing board.

Ration banking, the system by which the nations 14,000 commercial banks will handle ration coupons in checking accounts similar to those through which money is handled, will be put into operation through the United States in January. This system will simplify the method by which retailers and wholesalers turn in coupons handed over by their customers.

December rationing quotas for new passenger automobiles are 28,900 compared with 35,000 in November, for passenger car tires and recaps 2,300,000 compared with 1,285,000 in November, and for adult bicycles 85,000 compared with 87,000 for November.

School children who work on farms are eligible to buy rationed bicycles.

WOMEN AT WAR—Overalls, wrenches and drills replace fineries as these war workers in an Army Arsenal march to tank repair shops. Note the determination on their faces. These women are typical of hundreds of thousands who are working in war factories and investing part of their earnings in War Bonds.

Mrs. Roosevelt (left) says women help men at front by buying War Bonds. At right is the label tag which volunteers will wear during Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 28.
