REA PROBLEMS TO BE STUDIED

the democracy it symbolizes, demands the best of all of us who work for the interests of rural electrification. This is your chance to present problems that have obstructed you locally and to join in a program for their solution.
"We are virtually certain of having at least one official of cabinet rank in attendance, and Congressman John E. Rankin, one of the "daddies" of R.E.A. and its greatest exponent in the Congress has already accepted our invitation. The meeting promises to be the largest and most significant gathering of public power officials ever held in the United States."
Discussions of how electricity may be put to wider use in the food-production program will involve a "reappraisal" of regulations that have limited the use of materials for expansion of rural electrification, Congressman Ellis stated. Measures to be considered include: The possibilities for additional service connections along existing electric lines, in cases where materials are already available; the installation of wire on poles that were erected before rural line building came to a halt several months ago; and relaxation of restrictions on the manufacture of appliances such as milking machines, motors, water systems and other devices, so that the farmer may obtain all the tools he needs to make his maximum effort, with minimum labor.

Mr. Ellis stressed the gravity of the farm labor shortage and said it was the desire of all members of REA co-ops to make electric power substitute to maximum degree for "muscle power" so that the flow of vital foods to military personnel and civilians may be continued at present or higher levels.
Arrangements for the meeting, which will be held in St. Louis' large Municipal auditorium, have been cleared with the Office of Defense Transportation, according to Mr. Ellis. Business affairs to be transacted during the sessions include the installation of new board members and completion of proposed changes in by-laws.
Other problems of the local cooperative will be considered and new activities will be organized.

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

If you can't get that — try this
Even though our food dealers' shelves are likely to fall on the appearance of 094 Mother Hubbard's cupboard during this wartime period, it is still up to the homemaker to keep the family fare in balance with sufficient vitamins, minerals, and other body-building ingredients.
FOR YOUR DAILY QUOTA OF VITAMIN A
... Look to your dairy products, eggs, starchy meats such as liver, heart and kidney, oily fish, leafy green and yellow vegetables. If one "A" food is not available, then turn to another.
GET YOUR VITAMIN B
... From whole grain cereals, enriched flour and bread, milk, eggs, liver, kidney, fruits, and vegetables.
YOU'LL FIND VITAMIN C
... In oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tomatoes and berries. Leafy uncooked vegetables, especially cabbage, can be called upon for "C."
MINERALS ARE SO NECESSARY
Calcium of course dairy products, especially milk and cheese, are the best sources, but the pinch hitters are molasses, carrots, cabbage, broccoli, and dried figs.
Iron—Liver, heart and kidney are about the best sources of this all important mineral. But too, there's whole grain cereals, enriched flour and breads, lean meats, egg yolks and leafy green vegetables.
PROTEIN AND ENERGY FOODS
Proteins—These are the sustaining foods around which our menus are usually built. Meat, of course, is most universally favored. But when the family quota is exhausted, then think of the menu in terms of cheese, eggs, dried beans, and nuts.
Energy Foods—Somehow or other, we seem to get our share of these, so there's no need for worry here. Breads, desserts, potatoes, in other words, starches and sweets, are seldom neglected on any menu.
