TO J. H. REID

Here is a little toast to J. H. Reid, local farmer and good citizen. He has lived in Hermiston and on his farm for over 35 years. His first several years were spent in Hermiston as a banker, after which he applied his energies to farming—from which he is now retired. During these active years he has built up one of the best diversified farms in Eastern Oregon. For years he maintained a large herd of dairy cattle and 5000 laying hens. He made the business pay good dividends because of sound economy and careful management.

Besides a success in the business of farming, he has served the public well—as member of the Farm Bureau, director of the Inland Cooperative, Umatilla Cooperative Creamery, the R. E. A. and other organizations for the benefit of farmers, to which his time and sound advice has been freely given. He has also been a consistent member of the Hermiston Chamber of Commerce and frequent attendant at its meetings. He thereby has kept in touch with the town as well as country affairs. There are few men in the community who have maintained as sound or well balanced view of the needs and the developments of this comparatively new region as has Howard Reid.

The Herald believes that he is entitled to this praise since he has retired from the greater activities of his life, and though retired, is still active in public matters. He is a liberal bond buyer and Red Cross supporter—a warm friend to any movement that would contribute to the welfare of the community to which he has devoted so much of his energy for over a third of a century.

The Farmer Needs Help

This sort of weather, haying time and shortage of labor do not contribute to the peace of mind of the farmers of this locality. The prospects for the first crop of alfalfa are rather gloomy and there is not much to add a silver lining. There is only one thing we can do and that is every man who can to give a helping hand wherever and whenever, hours or days, to help the farmer get this much needed forage into the stack. We will need the milk and butter and beef this winter that alfalfa will provide.

ECHO NEWS ITEMS

By Mrs. W. H. Cravy

J. W. Foley, well known Butter Creek farmer, was seriously injured Sunday morning when a ladder broke with him as he was carrying a bucket of water to the roof of his residence to extinguish a chimney fire. He fell about 8 feet, landing head first on a concrete walk. He suffered a skull fracture, a broken collar bone and a broken arm. At last reports from Pendleton hospital he had not recovered consciousness.

Mrs. Berglin arrived Friday from Minneapolis for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wadsworth. She is the mother of Mrs. Wadsworth.

For the first time in many years trout are running in Butter Creek and catches of fish as long as 18 inches are reported. In places along the lower creek the fish are found in irrigation ditches far out in the fields. Fifteen or twenty years ago Butter Creek and its upper forks had excellent spring fishing but the drought years dried up the stream so early each season that the trout disappeared.

A hole was burned in the roof and some water damage done to the interior of the B. B. Middleton dwelling Sunday morning by fire. The fire occurred while Mrs. Middleton was cooking breakfast, starting from the kitchen chimney. Prompt action by the local fire department extinguished the blaze. The loss was covered by insurance.

The first death of an Echo man in action was reported by the navy Saturday when Dewey Howard Pearson, private first class, was listed as dead. Dewey was reported missing on January 22, but a later radio report from International news service stated that he was alive and had been given an award for bravery in an engagement while with a convoy to Russia. A letter from his father, Howard Pearson, dated May 27, said that the navy informed him there was no information regarding Dewey but Mr. Pearson was confident his son must have been picked up and was in some foreign country.

C. Melville, who has been operating a wheat farm in the Alpine district for many years, reports selling his 800 acre ranch to R. C. Struthers. Mr. and Mrs. Melville will remain on the farm until this year's crop is harvested and then plan to reside in town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan received a letter from their son Russell, who is in the army, saying that he just arrived in England after a pleasant trip by boat.

Ladies of Pine City, who have been working on Red Cross projects this spring, have turned in 70 completed pillows for use at front line hospitals. They plan to continue the work as soon as the harvest season is over.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hughes, who have been in Portland where Mr. Hughes was receiving medical attention, returned to Echo Thursday. Mr. Hughes is considerably improved.

A state highway crew spread crushed rock base on Bonanza street south of Man Saturday. They plan to oil this street if sufficient oil is available for the job.

Earl R. Cotton of Fossil has been elected science and mathematics teacher in Echo high school for next year. He will also act as Methodist pastor at Echo and will reside in the church house on Garden street. Rev. Malcolm B. Ballinger, who served

Hermiston and Echo churches the past year, left Monday for Cambridge, Mass., where he is to report June 7 to take training for a chaplain in the United States army.

Harry Bartholomew former pastime operator of Echo is here from Oakland, Calif., to remain over Memorial day. He is now employed as a guard at Oakland in the coast guard service. Mrs. Bartholomew, who joined the WACs last year, is now a staff sergeant and is stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., where she is training enlistees.

Mrs. Nona McFaul, assistant postmaster at Echo, left Thursday for Portland where she will spend a brief vacation, returning home the first of June.

News has been received from Portland that Dr. Willard Gobbell, former Echo high school graduate, has been assigned to navy transport duty and was in Seattle last week awaiting departure of his ship. His sisters, Mrs. William Grant (Lois) and Mrs. Ray Mueller (Ruth) of Portland, visited him in Seattle. Mr. Mueller has recently been called into army service.
