FIRST CUTTING OF HAY SAFE

The past week started cold and showery and farmers were considerably concerned about hay from the first cutting which was still not in stacks. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday proved ideal for haying and most of the crop is now safe in stacks and a rain now would be quite welcome.

The weather story last week stated that "the warm weather is here at last" and by press time it turned cold and showery, so this week no comment—just the readings.
