Just what the outlook is in the future is not known but it is quite certain that deliveries from the east will not be increased as these concerns have made it public that their shipments to the west coast will practically cease.

BEER RUNS LOW IN HERMISTON

The numerous tongues one sees hanging out around town is not so much the weather as the fact that local beer halls have been running out each day of the popular beverage. The situation here is very typical about the country as beer deliveries have diminished to smaller proportions in recent weeks.
