To Our Militant Youth

As we march on toward our ultimate destiny we cannot help but feel proud of our American boys and girls—the young men and women of these martial years. How well they have transferred beatitudes of peace into stirring hymns of war will become inspiration for poets, story writers, essayists and historians yet to come. The magnificence of that parade of millions clothed in indignant righteousness and the ringing steel of modern civilization is a revelation to us of ourselves and the powers within us.

These young men and women are showing us what America really is and in so doing of what stuff they are really made. In chivalrous mood they left the valleys of peace to do a certain job that just had to be done to save the country that nourished them and made us. In similar mood they will come back to the tasks of citizenship, which, if they perform as well as they fight, we need have any fears of our future. They will take care of what leadership most nations expect of us.

These boys and girls grew up in a society created by battles for freedom. They have been educated in the doctrines of equal rights. Their forefathers baptized the four freedoms long before they were reborn. Opportunity under these principles have given body, mind and spirit to our sons and daughters unequaled under any other government regime in history. Our boys on battle field and sea and in air have shown superiority, alertness of spirit, coordination of mind and muscle, fearlessness and heroism and many other characteristics of high morale, which we are proud to know exist in the weave of our American life.

They are coming home some day and we hope soon. We shall be glad to welcome them for gallantry and heroism and the achievement of victory. We shall also be equally joyous to welcome them for ability and character shown under new and terrible conditions, and we shall proudly hail them because of assurance of performance in shaping of things to come. We have faith that their future work in affairs of industry, science and government—the walks of peace—will be as well performed as their arduous duties in a blood-starred world.

Because of labor shortage it will be necessary for all persons in the community, who have ever picked turkeys or can learn how, to aid the Eastern Oregon Turkey Growers association soon in its effort to get the Thanksgiving bird to our boys at the front. This is a patriotic duty and we hope that there will be a ready response to just get in and help.

STANFIELD NEWS

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Green at their farm home over Sunday were Miss Elva Berry, Mrs. Margaret Daughtrey and Mrs. F. B. Stuart. A pheasant feed was enjoyed.

Saturday night, much to the pleasure of some weary disappointed hunters, Gilbert Smith was host for a deer steak supper at his home. Others than his family were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Isackson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Isackson, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith. They concluded their evening at the Carl Rhea home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rhea have moved to the Harry Andrews farm eight miles west on Butter Creek.

The school will close Friday for the teachers who are serving on the ration board. School will be open for those getting ration Book 4 from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hughes enjoyed a week end visit with the Curtis family from The Dalles as their guests. While here pheasant hunting was an added pleasure.

The sewing machine clinic last Friday was attended by 23 people and was very instructive. Ten machines were repaired with Mrs. Myrtle Carter directing. Mesdames McPhetridge Foxx and Kennison prepared a nice lunch for those present.

Mrs. Charles Aikes and son, Mrs. George Waltz and son, returned Tuesday to their home in Colorado after a nice visit here with their mother, Nanny Potenski and members of the Krause family.

Mrs. Bert Sherry visited Mrs. Hubert McCullough here last Thursday, and is again looking to locate in Stanfield.

Girl Scouts will enjoy a masquerade party at the hall Friday evening, October 29, this week. Mrs. Strasser is their leader.

The school will feature their annual carnival on October 30 this year with numerous committees at work, and a formal program to open the evening's fun.

Mrs. Cordilla Lowe and mother, Mrs. Neva LeTrace have returned to their home here after about seven weeks spent with relatives at Heppner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson from Portland were guests at the J. F. Rueber home last week. Mrs. Anderson, the former Hulda Rueber, is Mrs. Jake Rueber's sister. They all enjoyed the pheasant hunting. A waffle supper was enjoyed on Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Jack Reeves in Hermiston.

Leo Rueber, Sr. 3rd class, writes briefly from Rhode Island to his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rueber, that he is O. K.

Warren Rust and wife, formerly Nellie Moore, and little Sharon from Vancouver were callers here last Saturday and visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore of Hermiston for a week.

Marie Evans and Normie visited Leota Evans at Maupin, Ore. for a week.

Carl Mollsted, S. 1st class, after making a tryout run of one of the new liberty ships (tankers) from Portland to San Francisco, enjoyed a short trip here to visit his mother and sister, prior to a long trip ahead of him.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the home of their president, Mrs. Roy Duncan, this Thursday for a pot luck luncheon and a sewing session.

Many Grangers from Stanfield attended Booster Night at the Westland Grange October 21.

Miss Patricia Richards, nurse from Portland, is enjoying this week at home with her mother, Mrs. Mabel Richards.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hearing of Pendleton are visitors at the Gordon Hoffnagle home.

TURKEY COSTS ARE SUBMITTED

Information on the cost of producing turkey hatching eggs and poults was supplied to OPA officials in Portland recently by a group of turkey growers and hatcherymen, reports Noel L. Bennion, extension poultry specialist at O. S. C., who attended the meeting.

If excessive prices are avoided by breeders and hatcherymen, ceilings will not be established, the OPA officials indicated. The estimated cost of production for 1944 given by the committee, applying to the average Broad-breasted Bronze breeders, is 25.76 cents per egg, to which would be added the normal markup of about 20 per cent to cover marketing costs and hazards involved. Hatcheries as a rule charge about 2 1/2 times the price of hatching eggs for day-old poults, the committee stated.

ANTI-FREEZE IS SENT TO 'SUNNY ITALY' & ICELAND

Shipping anti-freeze to "sunny Italy" is not another version of shipping coal to Newcastle, according to Col. A. S. Buyers, commanding Umatilla Ordnance Depot.

"It is cold in Italy's Apennine Mountains," Col. A. S. Buyers said, "and our tanks and trucks will use a lot of ethylene-glycol in that area. The British Isles, Iceland and Alaska are a few other places where anti-freeze will come in handy this winter."

The current demand upon Army Ordnance Field Service depots all over the United States for the ethylene-glycol anti-freeze solution is tremendously heavy in preparation for the protection of all of the Army's motorized equipment, whether in this country or overseas. Only those vehicles which are in service in the tropics are exempt from the winterization formulas laid down by the Field Service Division of the Ordnance Department according to Col. Buyers, commanding the Umatilla Ordnance Depot.

Combat troops in all parts of the world are being advised by Ordnance Field Service to become familiar with instructions of "Cold Weather Lubrication and Service of Combat and Automotive Equipment," just issued as a guide to protecting Ordnance equipment before the advent of sub-zero temperatures.

"A tank, gun motor carriage or a truck is of no use in combat if its engine will not run due to a cracked cylinder head, and the Ordnance Department, Army Service Forces, is using every ounce of anti-freeze available to protect the engines of its vehicles," said Colonel Buyers. "Instructions have been received at all depots and ports of embarkation to fill radiators of assembled vehicles which are to be shipped overseas with the standard Army mixture of 60 per cent ethylene-glycol and 40 per cent water. Already temperatures as low as 38 degrees are being experienced in the North Atlantic.

"Vehicles may be shipped anywhere, any time, and for this reason," said Col. Buyers, "the Ordnance Department recently directed manufacturers to place the mixture in every vehicle they produce at any time in the year, leaving it in the equipment which is to be shipped already assembled and draining it from the vehicles which are shipped in boxes. While the vehicles shipped in boxes are astensible shipped dry, the mixture is placed in the radiator and then drained out simply as a protection against the slightest amount of water which might be in the engine and which would freeze and crack the cylinder while passing through low temperature area."

PROTECTION

is needed in these days

This is no time to scrimp on protection. But safeguarding the homes and possessions of America is not solely a job for the armed forces. It is the job of every householder to see that his home and family enjoy the protection of adequate property insurance. Fire, wind-storm, explosion, are essential coverages that are a vital part of your plan of protection. Public Liability insurance and other liability forms are equally so. Let this agency be your insurance guardian.

COUNTY GROUPS TO PROMOTE FOOD CAMPAIGN

All county nutrition committees are being enlisted in the nationwide "Food Fights for Freedom" campaign which is set for November, reports Dean Ava B. Milam, Oregon State college, chairman of the Oregon nutrition committee.

The "Food Fights for Freedom" campaign is designed to present to the general public the essential facts about the nation's food at this time and the tremendous part it plays in the war, says Dean Milam. Many organizations will have a part in the campaign, reports of which will be seen and heard throughout the month through the press, radio, and by other means.

The slogan for the campaign is "Produce, Conserve, Share, and Play Square." While the production part of the campaign, as well as food preservation, has been fairly well completed for this year, Dean Milam points out that county groups will be aiding the campaign by all activities which will encourage right buying, proper preparation, and right eating of foods, including the elimination of waste through encouragement of "clean plate clubs" and other devices.

The TRUTH ABOUT TIRES

ABOUT TIRES

IS THAT

ONLY AN INSIDE INSPECTION

Can tell about Fabric Breaks which do not show from the Outside until too late. It's like this:

Tires less than a year old are usually sound, but OLDER Tires (which are most of them) GENERALLY SHOW FABRIC DAMAGE SPOTS, often started by a puncture, severe bruise or rock cut which occurred so long ago the owner has probably forgotten all about it.

AN INSIDE INSPECTION AND THEN VULCANIZED REPAIR OF ALL WEAK SPOTS WILL GIVE YOU MUCH EXTRA MILEAGE
