Mechanical Brain, Automatic Muscles of Steel SAVE YOUR BACK AND ARMS

This modern farming machine actually "thinks" and acts for itself. "Thinks" and acts and thereby saves your back and arms.

You touch a five-inch control lever with your finger tips and a mechanical brain which operates automatic muscles of steel sets the implement at the depth you desire.

The exclusive and patented Ferguson System then automatically maintains constant control over the depth of the operation you selected.

No more bruised knuckles, pinched fingers, backache and tired arms from frequent adjustment of lever equipped plows, cultivators and other implements when you operate a Ford Tractor with Ferguson System.

There are many equally astonishing features about this modern farming machine that are not described here. The next time you are near us, stop in and ask us for the whole story.
