This is a piston

Inside your engine are cylinders...like so many upside-down water glasses. And inside each cylinder is a snug-fitting piston that slides up and down like your dish mop in a glass. But pistons must do it about 1800 times every minute your engine is running. And that's traveling!

Without constant lubrication, pistons would heat up and swell—get stuck tight in seconds. Fact is, lubrication is all that keeps your car from joining the 5000 American automobiles that are junked every day.

That's why it's a ritual with Shell people to examine the oil level in your car. Because if it isn't up there at running level, you are heading for trouble.

And Shell doesn't want you in trouble. If your car should stick a piston you wouldn't be coming in for any of our free services. Nor for our gasoline, oil, tires, grease jobs, batteries, etc.

BETWEEN US GIRLS—
Shell has a fascinating FREE booklet for you . . . Alice in Motorland. It tells how un-mysterious your car really is; how to keep something expensive from happening to it. Ask for a copy at any Shell pump.
