Good news! The long-sought-for and much-needed veterinarian is here! This week, Dr. Fast, D.V.M., came to town to assume veterinary responsibilities in this territory, and can be reached by phone at 3311. Don't hesitate to call. He's here to serve. Use him! I have arranged to have the Doctor present some vital information regarding the control of various diseases in this column. Watch for this material to be released in the next few issues.

Here's a card they're kicking around in sales circles:

Notice To Customers!

Due to my independent position as a salesman I have decided to show my lines at a time best suited to my own conveniences.

At the present time, it pleases me to permit you to view merchandise only on Tuesdays and Wednesdays between the hours of 2:00 and 4:00 p.m. This will allow me to start and extend my week ends without interruption, and also permits me to devote my mornings to rest and recreation.

NOTE: The above applies only as long as the war produces a scarcity of materials. After the war, I'll be around with my tongue hanging out, and loose at both ends, as usual.

Can You Picture

without Doctors?

While the doctors and nurses from our state are with our armed forces, other thousands of home front doctors are fighting doubly hard to keep their fellow-citizens in good health.

To our State Department of Health too, goes credit for the high standards of medical care in this state.

We of Overland Greyhound Lines pay tribute to our doctors. They're doing a vital job. Overland Greyhound's job is different—but vital, too! Providing safe, convenient transportation service is really important now. By making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve in this state we are helping unify our war efforts.

There are a few more lines to be written about the sanitation program we have been discussing for a week or two. This week, we think about the sanitation as applied to the household. Disinfection in the home and household is just as important as it is in the farmyard, although frequently overlooked.

Basements are famous for dampness and molds which cause disagreeable odors. The sink and the area around the sink often becomes smelly and unpleasant. Ants, roaches and other vermin find this a delightful area for habitation. Regardless of how careful a person is, the garbage can always becomes smelly and sour. After scrubbing the garbage can inside and out, rinse it with a solution of PAR-O-SAN. Thorough cleaning, scrubbing and rinsing of all the above mentioned areas with PAR-O-SAN will insure the best conditions, and provide a comfortable, happy atmosphere by removing all odors, etc.

Quite often smelly disinfectants are used in outdoor toilets and in chemical closets. Why not make the business of farming the most pleasant and cheerful occupation it can become by eliminating as many of the undesirable odors and conditions as possible? Start your clean-up campaign now. Live with an enjoyment, and provide the healthiest conditions for your livestock. The results will surprise you. See Pete Berg this week for ample supply of disinfectants and GO TO WORK on your place!

Remember to watch for Dr. Fast's disease control messages to be found in this column in the immediate future. —adv.
