SAYLOR'S

Tale Told Out of School:

Miss Gwendolyn Ross, assistant field director here in the Red Cross office, was touring some center activities not long ago with Chaplain M. D. Safford. They were talking with Lieut. C. L. Pounders in the classification room as recruits were being interviewed by the classifiers when a bluejacket rushed up to Miss Ross and identified himself. Seems Miss Ross had been a teacher in the Hermiston, Ore., high school for three years and that Lester Wilcox, AS. Co. 338, remembered her. At second glance, Miss Ross remembered that she had had Les as a freshman, sophomore and junior student at Hermiston. Miss Ross recalled, too, a few times when the former student fudged a little on his lessons so he could spend more time building airplane models. With true school-teacher's instinct, she cast a critical eye over Les's Navy exam marks. Said she: "I was gratified at his high grades." (Wilcox, stop beaming!)

NEW RED STAMPS VALID JULY 30

Three more red ration stamps, each worth 10 points, will become good for buying rationed meats, fats and dairy products July 30, became valid for buying rationed meats, fats and dairy products July 30. Willard Case, OPA Food Rationing Executive, announced today.

These stamps are A15, B-5 and C-5 in war ration book four, and represent the housewife's quota for a period now set at four weeks, July 30 to August 27.

At the same time OPA announced that the July ration point value charts for meats-fats and for processed foods would remain in use at least until August 13. The 16-point value for one pound of butter, established on July 23, continues in effect.

Point value charts normally require two weeks for printing and for distribution to the nation's 600,000 food retailers. The extension was planned to allow for full consideration of possible changes in the meat supply and its effect on rationing.
