The War Is Long and More Bonds Must Be Bought

Again we are called on to buy bonds and we will buy. The war is far from being over. We know this full well. We may be called on to buy again and again and again, to end the fierce struggle to restore peace to the world. Winter has bogged us down on the Western front and Japan has made great gains in China and is fighting hard in the Philippines. While it costs money to buy bonds, it also costs money to make bombs. It costs great sums to provide our fighting boys with all the equipments of war, and great sums to provide for their physical comfort—and to care for the wounded. The best we can do is none too good for our boys who bare their breasts to enemy fire and their bodies to the rigors of winter, rain and snow and catch a few winks of sleep we know not how or where. We, at home, have not yet felt the pinch of the war, except as we pay the bill, and if it takes all we have we cannot begrudge all to the fighting heroes and the cause for which they are dying.

Election returns show that the isolationists are swept from the sphere of influence in American politics. Men like Senator Gerald P. Nye and Congressman Ham Fish and others, in both parties, were weeded out of Congress. The Chicago Tribune, known as the biggest newspaper in the United States, lost every candidate it supported in its territory of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and Michigan. These same forces were the ones, along with the Republican old guard, that destroyed Wendell L. Willkie and because they tried to hang their influence on Governor Dewey caused his defeat. If they had given their support to Willkie last summer, events have shown that Willkie would doubtless have been elected. Now the isolationists and non-liberalists have nothing but the ashes of defeat.

Senator Byrd, true to form, has inaugurated the presidential inaugural at the White House, at a cost of about $2000.00 instead of $25,000.00 at the Capitol, and the President has agreed. It is a good example of the economy that we hope for during the coming days. The tremendous expenditure of public funds, with debts, waste, heavy taxes, inflation, and want and vice can be restricted by the new congress and administration, and Senator Byrd, of the democratic party, is the right sort of a man to start the idea in a practical example. This example should also reach down into private life where men and women should be saving part of their earnings from day to day as a back log to continued national prosperity when reconversion takes place, and as security against want for themselves.

The high cost of living

The low price of electricity

LOOK AT THE COST OF LIVING—up 25.4% since 1939*

Then look at the average kilowatt-hour price of P.P.&L. electricity—down 21% for residential service during the same period!

Part of this reduction in the average cost of electricity is due to increased use of electrical helpers, which automatically moves users into the lower steps of our progressive rate schedules. But even more important have been the three rate reductions and the two "rate dividends" received by our customers in the past five years.

These forward steps have cut the average price we get for residential electric service from 2:36 cents per kilowatt-hour in 1939 to only 1.86 cents at the present time.

And compared with 15 years ago, the average home served by P.P.&L. is now using about twice as much electricity—at no more cost.

The actual record of steady reduction in the cost of your electric service is your assurance of continued better value in the future.
