Busy Year Looms For Chamber of Commerce

When fifty men meet in a Chamber of Commerce session to discuss earnestly the public welfare questions of Hermiston, it means a strong force behind the future of the town. And these were not all. They represented two-thirds of the members and many other citizens who are highly interested in the planning of the days to come.

The new president has had two terms experience and the new secretary one term — both are capable in their positions. Both are interested in the welfare of Hermiston and also of the surrounding districts, and make qualified leaders of the many citizens who are equally interested in the advancement of the west end of Umatilla county.

For four years we have been going through a great transformation, but now have settled down to a more permanent and stable condition. With a large increase in population and volume of business and public improvements, new duties have arisen that can be met only by the activities of organized effort through the coming months and years.

During the past two or three years, the Chamber of Commerce has brought about much housing; has bought the ground for Victory Square; has secured the improvements of access highways, and promoted other smaller projects. The improved city water system and sewer system, accomplished by the mayor and city council, have been supported by a fine public spirit, largely maintained by business men through discussions in the Chamber of Commerce.

Under our present more normal condition, there is plenty to do and every citizen should support the work of the Chamber of Commerce. In addition, plans for a greater future now fall on the shoulders of the live men of the community in which also every citizen will be interested.
