"PP&L electricity is the best bargain in my household budget"

... says Mrs. Homer H. Hayes, Housewife of Joseph, Oregon

"PP&L electricity is so cheap, it's the best bargain in my household budget."

Mrs. Homer H. Hayes is the daughter of a Wallowa County pioneer, Daniel W. Warnock, who claimed one of the valley's first homesteads nearly 70 years ago. After her marriage to Mr. Hayes, she went with her husband to a remote section of the Snake River Canyon to establish a cattle ranch.

Lumber for the Hayes home was made into a raft at Pittsburgh Landing and floated 20 miles down the swift waters of the Snake to reach the site of their ranch home. Travel in and out of the Snake River Canyon was a two-day trip by horseback, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes with their two young sons made excursions about twice a year into the Wallowa Valley for supplies.

Nearly twenty years ago Mr. and Mrs. Hayes sold their Snake River holdings and purchased a 200-acre farm near Joseph, Oregon. This farm, well-electrified and long served by PP&L lines, is now operated by Mr. and Mrs. Hayes' son, Kirk. The other son, Corporal Max Hayes, is serving in the Army.

Mrs. Hayes has her war job, too. When the Wallowa Valley ranchers needed someone to receive livestock at their Joseph shipping point, Mrs. Hayes, who once rode for cattle on the Imnaha ranch, volunteered for the job. And now each Friday finds her at the Joseph stockyards, supervising the weighing in of cattle and other livestock shipped from the Valley to the outside markets.

"We've used PP&L electric service, first on our farm and now in our home in town for nearly twenty years—ever since we moved from our Imnaha cattle ranch back to the Wallowa Valley.

"I'll never forget how pleasantly surprised I was when we bought our first electric range and discovered how little it cost to cook with electricity. Since then we've added almost every electrical convenience you can use in a home... and yet our electric bill is just about the smallest item of household expense.

"One of the things I like best about PP&L is the extra service they give. For instance, when we bought the range, a PP&L representative came out to show me how to get the most out of it for the least cost. And from time to time they've gone over my electric bills to make sure I'm getting my money's worth for the few pennies a day I spend for electric service.
