HERMISTON SENIOR MEAL

Alexis Lee Alexander

Hermiston
April 19, 1969-February 15, 2015

Alexis Lee Alexander lost her long and exhausting battle with Crohn’s Disease on Friday, February 15, 2015. She died as she had lived ... with self-determination and great courage.

She leaves behind her mother Alice Alexander; sisters Angie Shepard (Todd) and Allison Alexander (Tom); her much-loved nephews Matt, Stephen and Reese Shepard and niece Maressa (James) and children; uncles Jim McCann and John McCann (Janice); Aunt Shirley and several cousins as well as her beloved cats, Nipsy and Ersä.

Alexis was born on April 19, 1969, in Cheyenne, Wyoming, to Alice and Dick Alexander, the first of three daughters. She attended the early years of elementary school there until the family moved to Villisca, Iowa, in 1977 where her father became the administrator of the Good Samaritan Nursing Home.

Rural Iowa gave Alexis an opportunity to explore her life-long interest in history as the local newspaper had newspapers dating back to the late 1800s. She and her sisters discovered the famous Villisca Ax Murders of 1912 and got to hear the story from some of the residents at the nursing home. Alexis put together a collection of dolls from different periods of time and wrote the history of them; later she entered her display in a state school contest.

She and her sisters entered their art work in the county fair at Red Oak and brought home many ribbons. From early childhood they had all shown an interest in art. Alexis was overjoyed to be invited to join an adult group doing experimental and innovative art forms. She was disappointed that the family moved before she was able to take the invitation to join a think tank group.

In 1981 the family moved to Stanfield, Oregon, while their house was being built in Hermiston where her father was the administrator of the Good Samaritan Nursing Home. Alexis had drawn the rough draft of the new house. She attended high school in Hermiston, graduating in 1987.

She greatly enjoyed her art classes, taking auto shop, being on the newspaper staff, taking science, and being in drafting class. During this time she invented a snoopy little character she named Bio.Frog who appeared in a comic strip for two of her high school years.

She was thrilled to spend two summers in Alaska working at a fish cannery while she attended Blue Mountain Community College and working in the Good Samaritan kitchen during the year as she attended college. After graduation she moved to the Tri-Cities and married Corey Christianson. There she worked in fine china at the Bon until they moved to Pullman, where Corey pursued a degree in engineering and Alexis enrolled in the architectural department. Later they moved to Spokane where they divorced. Alexis worked at the call center and later for Travelers Insurance until her health deteriorated to the point where she could no longer work.

At that point she was only able to volunteer. She dubbed herself the Chief Cat Cuddler at the animal shelter. She read widely, followed politics, spent hours on the computer, was an outspoken advocate for the poor, of abused women, of neglected animals, prisoners, children, and street people. She dreamed of being well enough to take flying lessons, to travel and to be a foster parent.

Prankster, outrageously extravagant lover of fine things, passionate explorer, compassionate, lovely, “diamond as big as the Ritz” we loved you so and will remember you always!

A Celebration of Life will be held on April 19th from 2:00 on at 820 Southwest 13th Place, Hermiston, the family home.
