Workshop teaches dulcimer strumming

By TAMMY MALGESINI
Community Editor

Nationally touring folk musicians Bob Webb and Heidi Muller will return to Hermiston this weekend to present a dulcimer workshop and perform a concert.

Calling Joseph home these days, the couple recently was in the area to provide an introduction to the Appalachian dulcimer. An American instrument with three strings, the dulcimer can be placed on a table top or lap and is strummed or picked.

The couple enjoys sharing their love for the simple instrument, which is easy to learn, Muller said. People don't need prior experience with the instrument to participate in the workshops.

The beginner workshops are taught by Webb, while the intermediate sessions are led by Muller. Both class levels are taught Saturday from 11-12:30 p.m. and/or 2-3:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 191 E. Gladys, Hermiston. People are invited to bring a sack lunch and participate in both the morning and afternoon sessions. The cost is $25 for one session or $45 for both.

Student dulcimers are provided to those needing an instrument. Also, some instruments will be available for purchase.

The couple will perform a concert Sunday at 3 p.m., also at the Methodist church. Admission is $10 for adults, $8 for seniors and $5 for youths 12 and under.

Each a talented musician in their own right — in concert, Muller and Webb, who have performed together since 2003, play a mix of original songs and traditional tunes. They blend each other's influences — stretching from the Pacific Northwest to the Appalachian Mountains — featuring dulcimers, guitars, mandolin and electric cello. The couple has released three CDs. In addition, Muller has a handful of solo albums.

Settling in West Virginia in the 1970s, Webb toured with the folk-rock group Stark Raven. The group became the house band for National Public Radio's Mountain Stage, a live radio show. Webb backed many top folk and blues musicians, including Odetta, Arlo Guthrie, Shawn Colvin and Tom Paxton.

Making her name as a Seattle recording artist between the 1980s and 1990s, Muller's song "Good Road" is still heard on Northwest Public Radio as the theme song for the Inland Folk show.

In addition to teaching, performing and recording, the couple hosts Dulcimer Week in the Wallows each summer. The high country musical experience is unforgettable, Muller said.

Those planning to attend a workshop are asked to register in advance by contacting Muller at 304-382-9422 or heidi.muller.music@gmail.com. For more information, visit www.heidimuller.com.
