Small trailer total loss in Monday night fire

A Hermiston woman escaped injury as she was visiting the office Monday night at Tom Able RV Park when her older model trailer caught fire.

Patricia Marie Roosa, who lived in the 1966 travel trailer, saw smoke when she returned to the RV space. Fire marshal Tom Bohm of Hermiston Fire & Emergency Services said Roosa attempted to enter the structure to rescue her cat, but couldn't find it.

Nearly two dozen firefighters, along with eight vehicles responded to the fire, which was called in Monday night at 6:39 p.m. The RV park is located south of Hermiston, off Highway 395. Firefighters remained on scene until about 8 p.m., Bohm said.

Several extension cords were running into the trailer, including at least one connecting to a space heater.

"We can't tell whether an extension cord shorted out or if the heater was too close to combustibles," Bohm said about the cause of the blaze.

Bohm urges area residents to refrain from using extension cords with heaters. The heaters, he said, pull a lot of electricity and the risk of shorting out extension cords can result in fires.

The 12- to 14-foot trailer, Bohm said, was a total loss.
