

Umatilla School District places bond for $10.5 million on November ballot

Hermiston Herald

Umatilla voters will be asked to consider a $10.5 million school bond in November.

If voters approve the bond the Umatilla School District will also receive $4 million in matching state funds from the Oregon School Capital Improvement Matching Program.

At all three schools in the district the funds would pay for roof replacements, entry and office remodeling to increase security, direct digital controls for the HVAC systems and security updates such as cameras and lock-down assistance.

The funds would also pay for additional space to be added on to McNary Heights Elementary School, a cooling tower replacement at Umatilla High School and plumbing, electrical, HVAC, window, flooring and bleacher replacement at Clara Brownell Middle School.

The bond package was put together after the school district contracted with the Wenaha Group to conduct a facility study and create a long-term facility plan. The study is available for review at the school district office, 1001 Sixth Street in Umatilla.

The district is holding public bond information meetings and tours of the school buildings starting at Clara Brownell Middle School at 7 p.m. every Tuesday in September.

"We want to give our community many opportunities to learn all they can about our current school facilities and what the bond can accomplish, if it passes," Superintendent Heidi Sipe said in a news release. "We are excited to share our vision and plans."

For more information about the bond, contact the district office at 541-922-6500.

Two injured in head-on crash

Hermiston Herald

Two women were taken to Good Shepherd Medical Center at about 8:10 a.m. Thursday morning after a head-on crash on Highway 395 north of Hermiston.

The male driver of a red Dodge Charger fell asleep at the wheel, according to an Oregon State Police trooper at the scene, crossing the center line and crashing into an oncoming Pontiac Torrent SUV that tried to swerve to avoid the collision.

The Charger then left the roadway and crashed into the brush.

Each vehicle had one passenger, and the driver and passenger of the Torrent were taken to the hospital. Neither the driver or the passenger of the Charger were transported by ambulance.

Golfers chip in for local Special Olympics program

HERMISTON HERALD

Even before 84 golfers started swinging their clubs during an Aug. 13 benefit tournament at Echo Hills Golf Course, Hermiston/Pendleton Special Olympics Local Program No. 510 received a donation from Mike Frink on behalf of Roger's Toyota of Hermiston.

The local car dealership raised money during a putting contest at the Triple-Six Golf Tournament at Echo Hills Golf Course. Frink presented a $510 check to Stu Bance, local program coordinator for Special Olympics.

In its 11th year, the tournament had three teams tied with 54 strokes after 18 holes. The winner was determined by comparing scores on the most difficult handicap holes. Team Better Than Brad's, captained by Eric Volger — and including Michael Martinez, Bryce Linker and Derek Monkus — took top honors. The Hang Tens, captained by Randy Sperr, placed second and in third place was Roger's Toyota, led by Frink. Ball Slingers, captained by Tye Stewart, came in fourth with a score of 55.

The event included a lunch sponsored by Cascade Automotive, which was served by members of the Our Lady of Angels Knights of Columbus Council No. 3999. Safeway and 7-Eleven also provided food items. Longtime Special Olympics coach Doris Boatright and longtime multiple sport athlete Lus Torres greeted golfers as they made the turn and also determined the door prize winners.

Thanks to a generous donation by Special Olympics Oregon, many of the golfers were able to pick out a Special Olympics T-shirt or hat, said Kristi Smalley, event chair and program fundraising manager.

Special Olympics provides year-round training and athletic competitions for people of all ages with intellectual disabilities. There is no charge for athletes to participate. For more information about volunteering or participating, call Bance at 541-376-8132.
