petitors that are set to change, however. This year, Hermiston is adding girls' bowling and slow-pitch softball to their roster of extracurricular activities. There's even talk of adding a girls' wrestling league if enough interest is shown.

"The culture of wrestling is just centered around boys," Usher said. "We're looking to change that."

Hermiston is no stranger to bowling — it has hosted both a boys' and girl's bowling club in previous years, but this is the first time it'll be recognized as a competitive team sport.

"We're really excited. This is a great opportunity for the girls," said bowling coach Joanne Chapman. "We want to grow as a team and as bowlers."

Chapman says the boys' bowling club will continue to play in tournaments in Oregon, but are looking to get things set up to compete in the Mid-Columbia Conference in the coming years. They hope to establish varsity and junior varsity teams, as well.

The boys' soccer program will also move from fall to spring in order to be able to compete with the rest of the schools in the conference.

The proposal to change conferences came about primarily to reduce Hermiston's traveling distances for away games. Instead of having to drive a bus full of athletes to Portland for a game, they'll only have to travel as far as the Tri-Cities or Walla Walla.

"This year, our kids won't be pulling in on a bus at 3 a.m.," Usher said. "Our students will get to have a normal high school athletic experience for once. Our athletes, coaches, and staff have embraced that we're unique. This is an opportunity that not many other schools get."
