Hermiston students plan for the future with career fair, scholarship help

At “Futures Week,” Hermiston High School students got to see what life might look like after high school.

Each day last week focused on a different aspect of college or career goals. On Thursday, students were encouraged to dress up in the attire of their ideal career. At lunch, there was a career fair, with local businesses setting up booths and helping students fill out applications for summer jobs. Earlier in the week there was a career panel, with speakers including a nurse, a cosmetologist, a firefighter, and a professor at Blue Mountain Community College. On Friday, career counselors were available to help students with financial aid and scholarships during lunch.

Genesis Sanchez, a senior, said she appreciated the help, especially as she gets closer to the end of high school. She said she has gone through a few career options, but now plans to study to be a dental hygienist.

“My plan is to sign up for as many scholarships as I can, go to BMCC, and then hopefully transfer to Washington State University,” she said.
