McNary Dam was a laboratory of learning Thursday as students from McNary Heights Elementary School celebrated the Earth.

Officially, Earth Day was April 22, but the school held its annual celebration Thursday.

Classes of students in matching T-shirts followed their teachers around the dam and its expansive park system, learning about different parts of the ecosystem. They planted seeds, learned new vocabulary through a scavenger hunt, checked out real birds of prey and played games to help understand concepts such as predators and deforestation.
