Around 350 youth gathered in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints church parking lot last Friday afternoon and set to work, building bunk beds under the heat of the midsummer

The goal was to construct 30 bunk beds, all exactly the same, to be delivered to area children ages 3 to 18 who are in need of a proper place to sleep. The event was organized by the Blue Mountain chapter of Sleep in Heavenly Peace, a national nonprofit organization, and held as part of a regional "youth conference" for the church.

Some of the supplies showed up late, but the group was still able to complete their goal. Five of the beds were delivered the same day to local families who had requested them.

"It went awesome. The kids were really hard workers and I wasn't sure we'd get them all done, but we did," said Heidi Mickelson, who founded SHP with her husband in 2012.

Elsie Zaugg, a soon-to-be freshman from Pendleton, spent part of the day staining bunk bed headboards.

"It's the right thing to do," Zaugg said. Zaugg said she'd never built a bunk bed before. This was the case with many of the youth volunteers — coming from La Grande, Pendleton, Walla Walla, Baker, John Day, Boardman, Heppner and Hermiston — who were shown by SHP organizers how to sand, stain, cut, and drill wood into beds.

CRYPTOQUIP

This is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.
