Almost 75 years to the day from when Hermiston's original Union Club opened, the business's rebirth was complete Friday with a grand opening.

Owner Justin Doyle told the crowd of nearly 100 gathered for the ribbon-cutting ceremony Friday afternoon that the project had been a "doozy" but he was glad it was finally complete.

"It's been a tough project, because this building is very old," he said. "After we started opening things up, this building had a lot of surprises."

The red brick building on the corner of Main Street and Northeast Second Street was built in 1906. Throughout its history it served a wide variety of purposes, including a library, bar, shops, the headquarters of the East Oregonian and RoeMark's Mens and Western Wear.

The shorter sides of the building serve as Simmons Insurance offices and the salad shop Veg Out, but the main section has been empty since 2012. Now it will serve as the Union Club, a coffee by day, bar by night establishment that also serves pastries and savory pies.

CRYPTOQUIP

This is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Clue: T equals O
