McLeod-Skinner, powered by the people, is the best choice for Secretary of State

To the editor: The Oregon Secretary of State serves all of Oregon's 36 counties as chief auditor, administrator, and elections officer. Jamie McLeod-Skinner is the only candidate for secretary who has visited and connected with communities in all of our 36 counties. She wouldn't need to play catch-up in getting to know Oregon.

During her 2018 run for Congress, the "Tear Drop Trailer" candidate put over 40,000 miles on her Jeep, crisscrossing our district. She would stop to visit with farmers working their fields and would drop in on local board meetings to hear rural concerns in one-on-one conversations. Jamie is the only candidate for secretary who doesn't live in the Portland-metro area, and will bring a rural perspective that is currently missing at the highest levels of state leadership.

Jamie is the only candidate who has pledged not to take corporate PAC, pharmaceutical or fossil fuel money. Jamie is accountable only to the voters and is truly the people-powered candidate.

Jamie understands that Oregonians have more in common than what divides us. She has the skills and experience to make voices heard from communities across the state. She can be a bridge builder between all of Oregon's demographic groups and political parties. Jamie will help ease our state's urban-rural divide, empower the voices of our working families, strengthen our communities, and protect our environment.

Please join Lonnie and me in voting for Jamie McLeod-Skinner as Secretary of State, our people-powered candidate. We trust her.

Inland Musicians keeps 'Moving Music' accessible; fundraiser helps it continue

To the editor: Inland Northwest Orchestra is your orchestra and chorale performing great music in your town, your area, your region. Inland Northwest concerts are free and you can conveniently "come as you are." It is a celebration when we come to your town. Our concerts are free for your entire family to attend. We like children.

So that we can keep "Moving Music" to your town, we have an annual fundraiser. It will be a dinner auction on May 23 at the Pendleton Convention Center. We are asking you to help us by donating auction items and to support the fundraiser with your attendance if you cannot attend.

Our volunteer musicians have adopted a "labor of love" using their skills and driving many miles. We come to your town/city/village to share our talents because we love music. It is important to your city to have live performances by your own symphony. And it takes your support to maintain a symphony and its travels to create a full season performing in northeast Oregon and southeast Washington.

In 20 years, Inland Northwest has performed 500 concerts in 50 towns and although we do not have a home where we ALWAYS perform, we still find friends and lots of support wherever we go. We are your hometown symphony.

Please contact INWM at 541-289-4696 or inwm@machmedia.com to make a donation of goods or services that you would donate for our dinner/auction called, "That's Amore!" May 23.

The deadline for donations to our fundraiser is April 30.

HERMISTON HERALD

The Hermiston Lions Club recently provided a boost to the Umatilla County 4-H program.

With money raised from the annual Horneck Banquet, the club disburses proceeds to support projects and or local groups who make a difference in the community.

Club member Phil Hamm said a $5,000 donation to the local 4-H will help support the many beneficial programs that they provide to area youths.

In addition, Hamm said that the Lions Club will also provide support for the rebuild of Funland Park and other projects. The Lions Club, he said, raises money to support area projects and programs as well as to provide eyeglasses and hearing aids, primarily to kids, whose family may not normally afford these necessary aids.

A longtime agronomist and soil scientist at OSU's Hermiston Agricultural Research and Extension Center, Horneck died

Sept. 28, 2014. An active member of the Lions Club, the group's community project fund continues to support programs in Horneck's honor.

For more information about the Hermiston Lions Club, including inquiries regarding how to join the club, call Hamm at 541-561-4724.
