

IN BRIEF

Hospital auxiliary announces scholarship winners

The Good Shepherd Medical Center Auxiliary recently awarded $2,000 scholarships to the following area students pursuing medical degrees:

Amanda McGloin, Blue Mountain Community College, nursing, and Oregon Health & Science University, bachelor's degree in nursing; Brigitte Valencia, Linn Benton Community College, occupational therapy; Kyler Mikami, BMCC/Brigham Young University, biophysics/chemistry and pre-med; Megan Gering, BMCC, nursing; and Paige Macisaac, Western Governor's University, bachelor's degree in nursing.

For more information about the auxiliary or its scholarships, call the director of volunteer services at 541-667-3690.

Chase Carlson to graduate from Iowa State University

AMES, Iowa — Hermiston graduate Chase Carlson, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, will graduate with a bachelor of science degree from the Iowa State University's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences (CALIS). Majoring in agricultural business, Carlson will join a network of 46,000 CALS alumni sharing their talents and making a difference around the world.

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 crisis and the university's commitment to prioritize health and safety, spring commencement has moved to a virtual format. On May 8, 2020, the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences will host a virtual convocation at 9 a.m. CST. This event provides individual recognition for graduating seniors and will feature a series of videos hosted on the college Facebook page or at www.cals.iastate.edu/convocation where the virtual celebration will be archived for future viewing.

Local student graduates from Boise State University

BOISE, Idaho — This spring at Boise State University, 2,785 students were eligible for 3,232 degrees and certificates, with 785 students eligible for honors.

Local students earning a degree were: Sadee Kemmerer of Adams (BS nursing); Sydney Moore of Hermiston (MSW, advanced standing); Kaelyn Lindsay of Lexington (BS psychology); and Jennifer Hoolehan (BS respiratory care) and Kendyl Thorne (BA elementary education) of Pendleton.

Hotline now available to help victims of February's flood

By ANDREW CUTLER
EAST OREGONIAN

As the county continues grappling with the far-reaching affects of COVID-19, some are still dealing with the impacts from February flooding that devastated much of Umatilla County.

A free legal hotline is now available for survivors of the severe storms, flooding, landslides, and mudslides in Umatilla County and the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. "We have recruited volunteer lawyers from the Pendleton community to get training on how to apply for FEMA and other government benefits," said Kateri Walsh, the public/media relations manager for the Oregon State Bar.

Disaster Legal Services, a partnership between the Oregon State Bar, the American Bar Association Young Lawyers Division and the Federal Emergency Management Agency, offers limited legal assistance from a local volunteer lawyer, Walsh said. Umatilla County residents facing legal issues related to the February floods can call the hotline at 503-431-6408 or 800-452-8260 ext. 408.

Walsh said the volunteer lawyers can aid with issues like repair contracts and working with contractors, replacement of wills or other important legal documents that could have been destroyed, counseling on mortgage foreclosure, advice on landlord-tenant problems if there's evictions, or employment law questions.

"People can call, explain what their legal issue is and we will do our best to connect them with a volunteer lawyer," she said. "Disasters like these floods can create a pretty bewildering set of legal issues for folks."

DISASTER LEGAL SERVICES

A free legal hotline is now available for survivors of the severe February storms, flooding, landslides, and mudslides in Umatilla County and the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. Disaster survivors facing legal issues can call the hotline at 503-431-6408 or 800-452-8260 ext. 408. Callers can receive limited legal assistance from a local volunteer lawyer, through this partnership between the Oregon State Bar, the American Bar Association Young Lawyers Division and the Federal Emergency Management Agency. The type of legal assistance available includes:

- Assistance with securing FEMA and other government benefits available to disaster survivors;
- Assistance with life, medical and property insurance claims;
- Help with home repair contracts and contractors;
- Replacement of wills and other important legal documents destroyed in the disaster;
- Assisting in consumer protection matters, remedies and procedures;
- Counseling on mortgage-foreclosure problems;
- Counseling on landlord-tenant problems.

FEMA ASSISTANCE

Individuals who suffered losses or damage from severe storms and flooding in February, may be eligible for disaster aid. Federal funds are available to help eligible individuals in Umatilla County and on the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation recover. The deadline to apply is June 2.

If you may need help with the application process, you may be able to get free assistance from a volunteer lawyer by calling the Oregon Stat Bar at 503-431-6408 or 800-452-8260 ext. 408.

- Call to apply: 1-800-621-FEMA (3362)
- The TTY number is 1-800-462-7585
- For 711 or video relay service, call 1-800-621-FEMA

For more information or to apply, visit www.disasterassistance.gov

When applying for disaster assistance, the following information will be needed:

- Social Security Number (including spouse's)
- Private insurance information, if available
- Address and zip code of the damaged property
- A telephone number
- An address where postal mail is delivered
- If disaster assistance will be accessed through direct deposit, a bank account type (savings/checking), account number and routing number

Blue Mountains in late January, followed by two days of rain and warming temperatures, created the worst flooding in at least 30 years in the city of Pendleton and other smaller communities in the area such as Echo. The Umatilla River crested at more than 19 feet on the night of Feb. 6 — nearly four times the average height for that date — during the worst of the flooding, and multiple rivers in the area set records for their water level.

Oregon Gov. Kate Brown declared a state of emergency on Feb. 7 for Umatilla, Union, and Wallowa counties, which meant the Oregon National Guard could respond.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency announced in early April that residents of Umatilla County could begin to register for federal disaster relief funds for personal property damages resulting from the flooding. The deadline to apply is June 2.

"They're facing tenant-landlord issues, housing issues, employment issues, that relate to the flood. We just want to make sure that they have resources to get some help," she said. "We want to make sure everyone who's eligible has the opportunity before the June 2 deadline passes."

The hotline, Walsh said, also covers tribal members.

"We've got the lawyer, Brent Hall, for the tribe involved in this program as well," she said. "So, hopefully, he can assist in connecting people with the right resources."

As of Monday, April 4, FEMA has distributed more than $800,000 in assistance for the Individual & Household Program to eligible applicants of Umatilla County and CTUIR, Walsh said.

"What we don't want is for people to give up without at least trying to access resources to which they're entitled," she said.
