What do you like to do in your spare time?
In my spare time, I like to be with my family or go on small adventures with my fiancé.

What surprises you about Hermiston?
How fast our little town has grown (and is still growing!)

What was the last book you read?
"After the Fall" by Dan Santat (read it to my kiddos)

What website or app do you use most other than Facebook?
I love Pinterest!

If you could travel anywhere, where would you go?
I would love to visit my family's origins in Mexico.

What is the funniest thing that's ever happened to you?
Falling down stairs because I was trying to save my food (not one spill).

What is one of your goals for the next 12 months?
To help my second graders prepare for what's to come

What is your proudest accomplishment?
Being the first one in my family to go to college and earn a degree.

Corrections

In the Oct. 7 brief "High school hosts Futures Month," the article misstated the nature of an Oct. 28 financial aid night. It will be a virtual event.

In the Oct. 7 brief "Free consulting available to non-profit groups," the article misstated where Metropolitan Family Service is located. It is in Portland.

On the advice of some middle school parents, the Hermiston School Board last Tuesday authorized district administrators to do "whatever is necessary" to control drugs in schools.

Early in the meeting, parents told board members they believe drug use, dealing and possibly violence have become commonplace at Sandstone Middle School, though locker checks and police searches have turned up no evidence.

Arlin Phillips, who was asked to speak for the concerned parents, said there have been incidents of intimidation that school administrators need to deal with immediately.

Superintendent Jer Pratton said he had only heard about such incidents earlier that day and needed specifics before the district could take action. Phillips did not supply any specifics.

2) Yoncalla High School principal Terry Duncan noticed a couple of weeks ago that a key to his pickup truck was missing from his office. He didn't think much of it until Thursday, when his wife spotted the 1994 Mazda pickup off the school parking lot, and instead of her husband, there was a 16-year-old boy and his dog.

A deputy gave chase heading south on Interstate 5 after a gas station reported the boy had driven off without paying for gas. The Douglas County Sheriff's Department reported the pickup was speeding as fast as 100 mph and passing vehicles on the right. The boy crashed into a ditch trying to make a turn. He taken into custody and held at a juvenile detention center in Coquille.

The administration of Hermiston Junior High School has scheduled a public meeting for persons interested in the narcotics problem.

The streets of Hermiston, according to Principal John Cermak, are becoming unsafe for junior high students to walk in broad daylight for fear of being beaten on suspicion of their reporting drug use.

Cermak said three students who were beaten Sept. 24 by older youths who suspected them of such action were afraid to identify their assailants for fear of further beatings.

cial event of the American Cancer Society, will be held beginning Oct. 18, with qualifying rounds to be held at the Desert Lanes in Hermiston. The drive is sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors Association of Oregon for the American Cancer Society, Oregon Division, Inc., and is approved by the American Bowling Congress and the Women's International Bowling Congress. Anyone bowling in a league is eligible to enter. All of the entry fee goes to the American Cancer Society. The winners of the house finals will then go to the "State Bowl Down Cancer" contest at Canby Bowl, Canby.

2,117, that's the total! Hermiston took the lead in new census increases last Saturday when the total reached 2,117 — an increase of 164%, compared to the 1940 figure of 803. Twenty-five other Oregon cities recently completed numerations had an average increase of 33% — and that puts Hermiston way out in front.

The important fact at this time is the amount of state gasoline tax funds and liquor apportionments the city will receive. This increase will be most welcome by the city council in their efforts to improve and advance the city, according to the new population.

To me the joy of the theater is in the attention forced by a skillfully constructed play acted by players of conviction and artistic power. I have often watched an audience coming from a moving-picture theater, and rarely have I seen a look of more elation or spirit upon the faces of the crowd than would result from the perusal of a newspaper. Whereas, after an evening at an interesting play, the audience pours forth in animation; and even though the play may have been a tragedy, emotions have been stirred and minds stimulated until the reaction shows on every face. So long as the human relation is preserved between actor and audience, so long will the acted drama retain its supremacy in any community — entertainment reviewer Otis Skinner
