Bryce Dole joins the East Oregonian

By JADE MCDOWELL
NEWS EDITOR

Readers of the East Oregonian and Hermiston Herald will see a new byline after Bryce Dole joined the East Oregonian's staff on Monday, Nov. 16.

Dole will cover public safety, county government and public health for the EO, with stories occasionally appearing in the Herald.

Dole grew up in Grants Pass in Southern Oregon and majored in journalism and environmental sciences at University of Oregon. While there he wrote for the university's student publications, covering everything from track and field to climate change. He interned for the Oregonian (no relation to the East Oregonian) over the past summer as part of the Snowden internship program.

"We are excited about having Bryce joining the staff," said Andrew Cutler, publisher/editor of the East Oregonian. "He did some amazing work for the Oregonian over the summer and I think he'll continue that here in Umatilla County."

While the internship was a whirlwind that included reporting on the pandemic and protests in Portland, Dole said he also realized the limitations of working for a larger publication.

"I would call people in small towns and say, 'I'm with the Oregonian,' and people would say, 'We don't know you. We know our own local reporters, but why would we trust you? Good-bye,'" he said.

The opportunity to get to know a community and be one of those trusted local reporters was one thing that drew him to the East Oregonian, he said, along with his respect for the quality of work at the paper. He is also excited about getting to explore hiking and other outdoor recreation in a new part of the state.

Dole said he is looking forward to covering his assigned beats, and is also interested in continuing to pursue environmental reporting, particularly around agriculture in Eastern Oregon. He emphasized he wants to get to know the communities the paper covers and that he hopes people will reach out with story ideas or just to introduce themselves.

Dole replaces reporter Alex Castle, who interned for the EO in the summer of 2019, freelanced for the paper that fall, and then permanently joined the staff at the end of the year. He was integral to the paper's coverage of the flooding of February 2020 and has been at the forefront of the paper's pandemic coverage. He said he is headed back to the Willamette Valley to be closer to family and take some time off before exploring new options in independent media and journalism.

"My experience with the East Oregonian has been the most important and enlightening of my life so far," he said. "I'm thankful for all the opportunities I had to tell stories about the Umatilla County community and for the people who trusted me with those stories."

Cutler said the University of Oregon graduate will be missed.

Good Shepherd Women's Center
CARING FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES.

Meet Michele, Breast Cancer Survivor.

"It is very important for women to get an annual mammograms and to perform self breast exams often. I am fortunate to have Dr. Leila Keeler as my OBGYN, who understood the importance of annual women's exams and mammograms. I went two years without a mammogram and an annual well women exam. My daughter, who also works at the Women's Center, encouraged me to make an appointment for my annual well woman exam. At my appointment for my well woman exam Dr. Keeler suggested I have a mammogram since it had been so long since my last one. I'm thankful she suggested to have it done because the mammogram detected early breast cancer. Breast cancer does not run in my family. Between my mammograms and the biopsy, I looked closer and noticed I did have a small indent on the underside of my breast which happened to be the side that the cancer was detected in. The care I received from Dr. Keeler and the entire Women's Center staff during my journey was beyond exceptional. Dr. Keeler answered all of my questions and gave me peace of mind. I understood what was ahead of me. My treatments included surgery to remove the cancer and 30 rounds of radiation. No chemo, thank goodness. My breast cancer treatment was minimal due to early detection. I'm thankful for the relationship I had built through this journey with Dr. Keeler and the Good Shepherd Women's Center staff..."
