

Review: Gory, goofy 'Malignant' a wild ride for horror faithful

By Adam Graham
The Detroit News

Gory, inventive and delightfully ludicrous, "Malignant" is a surprisingly fun blood-splattered thrill ride that keeps taking new and twisty turns.

Director James Wan, the "Saw" writer and director who also started the "Insidious" and "Conjuring" franchises, returns to his B-movie roots here with the story of a woman who is haunted by grisly visions. The reason for those visions is a late-in-the-film revelation that turns the film on its ear and will have horror fans howling with delight in all the right ways.

Annabelle Wallis ("Annabelle") plays Maddie Mitchell, who was adopted as a child and has always yearned for a blood connection to family. She's pregnant when the movie

'MALIGNANT'

Grade: B

MPAA rating: R (for strong horror violence and gruesome images, and for language)

Running time: 1:52

opens, and loses her baby after her abusive boyfriend sends her to the hospital. (Don't worry, he pays.)

In flashback we visit a research hospital in 1993, where doctors are trying to control an out-of-control monster who speaks through tech devices like old radios in a horrifying, electro-pitched scowl. In modern-day Seattle, this creature — clad in all black and with long black hair covering its face, like a Norwegian Black Metal boogeyman — is on a rampage against those docs,

Warner Bros. Pictures

Madison (played by Annabelle Wallis) is haunted by a mysterious figure in "Malignant."

using a sword fashioned out of a trophy awarded for excellence in surgery. Talk about personal.

Just as Akela Cooper's script begins to grow tedious, everything comes together and goes gleefully over-the-top. Wan, untethered and having a blast, uses all sorts of fun-house tricks with his camera, giving "Malignant" the feel of a ghoulish merry-go-round. By the time it stops, you'll be ready to take another spin.

Stop by the Chamber office for your free gift

Take a picture of you and your family at the Conestoga Wagon at the viewpoint above Prairie City and tag us on Instagram @grant_county_oregon_chamber!

Chamber of Commerce

www.gcoregonlive.com

301 W. Main Street, John Day, OR 541-575-0547

Our Backcountry
Little Store

YOU CAN'T WIN
IF YOU DON'T PLAY!

214 W North St. • Enterprise, OR • 541-426-4824

GET YOUR ONLINE
LOTTERY AND OREGON
SCRATCH TICKETS
HERE!

SAFE T TRANSPORT COMPANY

NOW HIRING DRIVERS!

541-276-6813

DISPATCHER@SAFETTRANSPORT.COM

