PENDLETON — The Northwest Invasion Tour featuring Afroman is making its way to Pendleton for a night of legendary hip hop the town has yet to see.

The Invasion Tour has rented out Pendleton's Electric Sundown, 14 SE Third St., to hold this 21 and over concert on Aug. 13, 8 p.m.-midnight.

Doors will open at 7 p.m. allowing an hour for attendees to visit the main floor bar and top bar before the concert begins.

"Electric Sundown is excited to hold this event and bring in more large acts in the coming future," said Jordan Stirling, Electric Sundown manager.

The night is jam packed with artists, with more potentially being added to the line-up.

Headliner of the night, Afroman, is a Grammy nominee hip hop artist most notable for his hit single "Because I Got High" and "Colt 45."

Joining Afroman will be Caleb Wildcard, T Dogg, The WKND Clique, Lady T and DJ On Tha 1.

The artists will kick off the concert with their individual performances before Afroman takes to the Sundown's largest stage to close out the night.

General admission tickets cost $30, plus a $3.46 fee, on eventbrite.com. Stirling advises those wanting to attend the event to purchase tickets early before they sell out.

For more information on the event call 503-729-2476 or visit electric sundown.com.
