HON. BINGER HERMANN is strongly in favor of the Australian ballot system.

Several tornadoes occurred in different parts of northern Missouri last Saturday and Sunday. Several persons received serious injuries and many buildings and crops were destroyed.

Through the efforts of Representative Hermann the survey of the Umatilla reservation, delayed by insufficient clerical help and blundering surveyors, is now in a fair way to be completed at an early day and the lands opened to settlement.

PHILIP METSCHAN, republican candidate for state treasurer, is the present county clerk of Grant, in which position he has shown that he possesses the qualifications and ability to occupy the office of state treasurer with honor to himself and to the satisfaction of the people.

"The people hate a traitor," says the Gazette. They do for a fact, though they do not make the application implied by that sheet. It is also a fact that the people despise a nonentity and a lick-spittle, as witness the general contempt for the Gazette expressed in Heppner, where it is best known.

The unspeakable bosh that emanates from the den of the Morrow county ring and obtains publicity through the columns of the Gazette shows to what clap-trap men of ability will resort when they direct their efforts to the task of bolstering up the waning power of an unprincipled boss.

The secretary of the Oregon immigration board thinks the population of the state will be increased by 150,000 this year. After Portland and "the valley" have been packed it is hoped that the board will inform three or four immigrants that there are a few quarter-sections of desirable land east of the Cascades.

It has been urged against Hon. W. W. Steiwer that he might favor division of Gilliam county if elected. If Mr. Steiwer is elected it will not be by or for any one section of the county. He will be governed by the wishes of the people of the entire county and not by the desires of any particular place in opposition to the other portions of the county. This Mr. Steiwer has stated in letters now in possession of various persons. Furthermore, he is a fixture of Gilliam and is here to stay.

The special committee of the National Reform league, appointed to inquire into the condition of the reform law, estimates that more than one-third of the entire time of each congressman is consumed in securing offices for his constituents. Taking the last congress for an example, the committee found that the number of bills and joint resolutions introduced was 17,078 out of which more than 11,000 were never reported from the committee to which they were referred; that about 1,400 were reported but never reached consideration, while less than 3,500 were finally acted upon.

HON. BINGER HERMANN, whose reelection will be brought about by the votes of both republicans and democrats, has little of the flash and fuss that with some representatives and senators takes the place of real work for their constituents. He does not spend his time in preparing and delivering buncombe speeches, but earnestly, forcibly and with the eloquence born of perfect sincerity he advocates those measures that will be of benefit to the people whom he represents, and his labors accomplish results. This course has enlisted the admiration and respect of his fellow members and has endeared him in the hearts of Oregonians, both east and west of the Cascades. The settlers of eastern Oregon note with especial satisfaction his efforts in their behalf. Isolated and scattered, struggling with disadvantages not known in the more populous portions of the state, too often neglected by the nation's legislators, they know by his acts that Binger Hermann never forgets them. They are workers and they admire his industry, which is of the kind that does not expend itself in noise and froth, seeking applause, but with patient persistence and unflagging zeal accomplishes something tangible. He has worn the hickory shirt and buckskin moccasins of the early western Oregon settler, and has a fellow feeling for the settler of eastern Oregon who is now experiencing the vicissitudes of pioneer life. He is a true representative of the people, able, earnest and industrious.

HON. PHIL. METSCHAN, the genial candidate for state treasurer, is so well and favorably known in eastern Oregon that any comment is almost useless. He lives in Grant, our neighboring county, where he has held many offices of trust to his honor. He is a thoroughly reliable and affable gentleman, possessing all the qualifications that go to make up the ideal state treasurer.

HON. E. B. McELROY, who will succeed himself as superintendent of public instruction, is known by his works. He has done more for the elevation and advancement of education in Oregon than any other man in the state. Mr. McElroy is one of our most industrious and hardest workers.

FRANK C. BAKER is another popular state official who will succeed himself. He enjoys the distinction of being the best state printer that Oregon has ever had. He is prompt and exact in his work, and fully deserves the reelection that surely awaits him. Surely, no good republican can look upon the above ticket with disfavor and scratch a single name, nor can he search the state over and find a better one. We are proud of it.

W. H. WILSON, Candidate for prosecuting attorney of the Seventh judicial district, is a prominent and successful attorney of the firm of Bennett & Wilson, of The Dalles. He is a staunch republican, an able attorney and a man who is respected by all who know him. He will fill the office in a worthy and satisfactory manner. His majority will be flattering to him.

The influenza has reappeared in Russia and England and threatens to become epidemic.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

Brief Sketches of the Men Whose Names Grace the Republican State and Gilliam County Tickets.

Never in the history of Oregon has a better or stronger ticket been placed in the field than the one nominated by the Oregon state republican convention at Portland on April 22, 1890. Unlike the usual nominations, there is not a weak name on the ticket, but all are of the best material in the party.

HON. BINGER HERMANN, The candidate for re-election to congress, is too well known by his long and faithful service in that capacity to need any recommendation. This representative has shown himself to be the true and tried friend of the people, ever ready to perform the most trifling of services as well as great acts for his constituents. He has made for himself a reputation for devotion to the interests of the people, and for persistent and untiring labor that ranks him with the ablest members of the house of representatives. His majority of 7,000 will be repeated in June.

HON. D. P. THOMPSON, Candidate for governor, is a man well worthy to grace the gubernatorial chair of Oregon; is one of the ablest men for the position in the state; is intellectual, progressive and a success in all of his undertakings. He is self-made man, and thanks to his pluck and push, enjoys the prosperity he so richly deserves. He is an honorable, broad-minded man, with nothing of the demagogue and blatant politician like his opponent. On June 23 Hon. David P. Thompson will be elected governor by a large majority.

HON. R. S. BEAN, Candidate for supreme judge, is one of our ablest jurists. He is an Oregon-raised man, and was educated at Eugene City. He is possessed of great energy and devoted to duty and will carry with him to the supreme bench the confidence and esteem of the entire people.

HON. GEO. W. McBRIDE, Another Oregon-born and liberal man, has filled the office of secretary of state in a thoroughly satisfactory manner to all parties; is an able, careful and obliging official, and the enthusiasm manifested on his renomination shows the confidence the people repose in him. His success is assured.

HON. PHIL. METSCHAN, The genial candidate for state treasurer, is so well and favorably known in eastern Oregon that any comment is almost useless. He lives in Grant, our neighboring county, where he has held many offices of trust to his honor. He is a thoroughly reliable and affable gentleman, possessing all the qualifications that go to make up the ideal state treasurer.

HON. E. B. McELROY, Who will succeed himself as superintendent of public instruction, is known by his works. He has done more for the elevation and advancement of education in Oregon than any other man in the state. Mr. McElroy is one of our most industrious and hardest workers.

FRANK C. BAKER is another popular state official who will succeed himself. He enjoys the distinction of being the best state printer that Oregon has ever had. He is prompt and exact in his work, and fully deserves the reelection that surely awaits him. Surely, no good republican can look upon the above ticket with disfavor and scratch a single name, nor can he search the state over and find a better one. We are proud of it.

W. H. WILSON, Candidate for prosecuting attorney of the Seventh judicial district, is a prominent and successful attorney of the firm of Bennett & Wilson, of The Dalles. He is a staunch republican, an able attorney and a man who is respected by all who know him. He will fill the office in a worthy and satisfactory manner. His majority will be flattering to him.

GILLIAM COUNTY TICKET.

HON. W. W. STEIWER, The candidate for representative, is a man of much more than ordinary intelligence, a life-long republican and devoted to the interests of the county. He has served well and faithfully in positions of trust before. He is a fixture in his county and has the good of the whole of Gilliam at heart, irrespective of locality. He is a representative man and one of whom we may well feel proud in our legislative halls.

HON. WM. MARINER, Candidate for county judge, is also well and favorably known throughout the county, having served as county commissioner for the past two years, with universal approval. He is an intellectual man of comprehensive views and well qualified for the position. Mr. Mariner is a practical farmer who is doing much to test the productiveness of the county. He is a perfectly reliable and competent man to trust the affairs of the county with.

W. J. EDWARDS, Candidate for county commissioner, is a prosperous and industrious farmer, who lives in the fertile Mayville country. He enjoys the confidence and esteem of the people of the county, where he has resided for several years. He is an intelligent gentleman, in whose hands the business of the county may and will be safely placed.

E. W. SANDERSON, The nominee for re-election to the office of sheriff, enjoys the reputation of being the most thorough sheriff in the state, as relates to his office work, which he has systematized thoroughly. Mr. Sanderson adheres strictly to business, and is fearless in the discharge of every duty. He is criticised only for doing his duty strictly, and will be re-elected by an increased majority.

J. P. LUCAS, Candidate for re-election to the clerkship, needs no introduction, having been in that position until the people have had ample opportunity to judge of his fitness for the office. No complaint has been heard of him while serving in that capacity, which is a sufficient recommendation.

ISAIAH HURT, Candidate for county treasurer, is a gentleman well and favorably known throughout the county. He resides near Condon and is a farmer; is well qualified for the position, and enjoys the utmost confidence of his many friends.

DAVID MASON, Nominee for assessor, is also well and favorably known, having resided in Gilliam county many years; is well-qualified and worthy the position. He obeyed the call of his country in time of need, and served as a cavalryman in the civil war on the side of the Union, and from disability receives a small pension. He will make a good assessor.

W. W. KENNEDY, Candidate for re-election as school superintendent, is also known all over the county, being an old resident. He has made a good, thorough and energetic official, having done much to advance the cause of education in our county. He is known by his works and needs no greater recommendation.

H. G. HURLBERT, Candidate for surveyor, is well known, having served as the first surveyor of Gilliam. There is not a more competent civil engineer in the state than Mr. Hurlbert, though at present he is engaged in farming.

R. R. HANKINS, Who was renominated by acclamation, amid great applause, for the office of coroner, must not be overlooked. This is a true case of the office seeking the man. He attempted to decline the honor, but his numerous friends refused to allow him to do so. He has been the recipient of many congratulatory messages and telegrams, among which is one from Hon. F. P. Mays, U.S. district attorney at Portland. Hankins is the man.

WORDS FROM THE "OLD BUCKEYE."

What a Democratic Editor Says of Hon. D. P. Thompson's Candidacy.

The Cadiz (Ohio) Sentinel of April 24th pays a handsome compliment to Hon. D. P. Thompson. It is all the more gratifying to that gentleman from the fact that the Sentinel is a democratic paper. Speaking editorially of Mr. Thompson's candidacy, the paper says: "David P. Thompson, the republican candidate for governor of Oregon, is a Harrison county man. He was born and reared in Cadiz, Ohio, where his father, who was a farmer and miller, operated a mill, which was known in this region as 'Thompson's mill,' and was located a short distance west of the infirmity farm on the Stone Fork of Stillwater. Our earliest recollection is fishing in this millrace, which was then quite a stream, as the forests were not then destroyed, and the stream was good the entire season. At an early age he was apprenticed to Elijah Latture in the blacksmithing business at 'Cadiz. Before his apprenticeship was finished he imbibed the 'western fever' and an off-walking all the way to Portland, Or., driving a flock of sheep. When he reached Portland he found himself in a predicament. He had but fifty cents and was out of employment, and he went to work on the streets of that city. A shopkeeper who had faith in the boy, gave him credit for a pair of shoes, and the first money earned more than his boarding was devoted to the payment of the debt. Having the push which leads to success he sought and obtained more congenial employment, and from a chairman became an engineer. An opportunity after opportunity offered in this new country, he was not slow to embrace them, and to-day the blacksmith's apprentice of Cadiz is one of the men of great ability, of spotless character, and as modest as a woman. Oregon ought to send him to the senate, and she would honor herself for so doing, and his splendid talents and business capacity would be of immense benefit to the new north-west."

Mr. Thompson was the first Freeman initiated in the Cadiz lodge. He was at the time under age, but, as age was not mentioned, he did not mind that it was a day or so out, and after he had taken the first degree the brethren thought best to advance him. His name from that time has been on the roll of this lodge, because he was its first candidate. The only objection we have to him is that he is a republican, but if we were a voter in Oregon we would be sure to vote for him, as a ticket at the June election, so great is our confidence in the man.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A Former Resident of Gilliam Discusses Politics and Other Questions of the Moment in Attractive Style.

I am glad to see the independent stand the BUDGET is taking in politics, and hope its readers will emulate the example. This country is boss ridden; every organization is cursed with bosses, so much so that intelligent people smile contemptuously when they hear demagogues proclaiming from rostrums in every city and hamlet that "this is a government of the people, for the people and by the people." What nonsense! Take politics for an example. Innocent voters imagine that men are nominated at the county convention through the delegates sent from the primaries. The bosses, big and little, understand that a few educated wire-pullers have fixed the slate long before THE PRIMARY FAUCES.

And that the prominent candidates are virtually nominated long before the county convention meets. I know of a gentleman, not a thousand miles from our state, who went around to the prominent politicians of his county and nominated himself by getting all the available delegates to the county convention to promise that they would vote for him, and in his own district he delegated himself to attend the county convention, for he and a friend of his were the only persons present at his district primary, which was called by himself and held in his office; and yet the people who elected him thought he was their candidate, and he was just as much so as many a candidate is the people's choice. But there are some candidates that won't go down with the most glibly voter—cod-liver-oil candidates, who make the people gag. Such men are put up by their party bosses to be traded off.

THE "BUDGET'S" COMBINATION TICKET. I know the people will be glad to see Binger Hermann's name at the head of the BUDGET's political mosaic, and I don't think Governor Pennoyer will be ashamed to be on the list, and all the signs seem to point to the election of Hermann, Pennoyer and McBride. The people of Morrow will only honor themselves by electing J. W. Morrow their county clerk. Mr. Morrow is an intelligent man of known clerical ability, and a gentleman besides, so well and favorably known in fact that nobody has to introduce him to the voters of his county; so, with a Godspeed to him and your joint senator, McHaley, and a pat on the back of both eye editors for good judgment, I quit this enticing, exciting subject of politics and turn to the still more exciting subject of THE PORTLAND STRIKE.

Where the bosses come in again. The boss builders and the bosses of the carpenters are still at war, and trade is dishearteningly dull. Immense bargains are shown in windows, but as there is absolutely no money in general circulation, the goods will be taken out of the windows and put back again at advanced prices in a little different shape when times are better. To add to the general depression the Willamette is rising fast, and merchants with all their clerical forces are log the second time within ninety days getting ready to be flooded out. In June they expect to move again; but the weather is warmer now, and malarial fever is prevalent to pneumonia, which prevailed last winter. The lodging-houses, hotels and saloons are in full blast, and if one can judge from the crowds of oppressed idle laborers that fill the latter places of resort to overflowing, the fund that the federated trades and others have sent will make bleated bond-holders of the beer-slingers; so one can see where the extra hour will be passed if the strikers gain it. The UTOPIAN NOTION That the vast majority of workmen in cities will use the extra hour for improving their minds is as fallacious as the idea that the extra pay will be used in making their families more comfortable. Not being an office-seeker obliged to bow down and cringe to the will of the foreign bondholders which are turning this country upside down, I dare to speak my mind. It is only in cities that the curse of this foreign immigration is so manifest, for the vile lazaroni of Italy, the seditious and treacherous Poles, the anarchists of Germany, the nihilists of Russia, the paupers of Ireland, and, worst of all, the Jews of everywhere, are not fond of legitimate labor, and there is always some way of getting along in a city, so they leave the country to the honest toiler, and laugh at him for toiling and being honest. But

THE FARMERS Can stand their contempt, for the sturdy manliness of the granger is all that saves this country from going to ruin. The farmer has something better than hayseed in his hair. He meets the seething masses of the great city and bayonets them with his unbought ballot at election time. He is the weight that keeps the scales of justice even. He wears rough clothes; there is nothing dainty about him; his English is apt to be more forcible than elegant, but he reads the country papers, which in the main are published in the interest of the people and are full of healthy sentiments. He forms his own opinions slowly, but generally sticks to them, though he is not too obstinate to listen to reason, but political orators must not attempt to gull him with soft soap and sophistry.

GRASHER BOYS AND THE "ELEPHANT." The city has its great temptations for the granger; but as he invariably gets into trouble whenever he enters one, a very little of city life goes a great ways with him, and he is not apt to expatriate upon the beauties of the "elephant" he has seen in the gilded cages of a city. Each country youth has "been there" some time, but the glory of his adventures is a sealed book except in the police courts. But never mind; "experience is the best teacher," and he rarely repeats the dose, and the beauties of nature shine resplendent afterward, and more than rival the beauties of a great city in the opened eyes of the granger boy.
