On last Monday we had the pleasure of wasting almost an entire day trying to get a telephone message to Portland. We put in a call at about 9 a. m. and waited in the telephone office until about 11 o'clock and the operator here repeatedly called Arlington in an effort to get the call through. Finally we were promised the line at 1 o'clock and then again at 2 o'clock and after waiting until 3 o'clock we were compelled to withdraw our call Arlington informed the operator here that the line was busy and it would be hard to tell when we could get our call The dance last Friday evening given through. of recital, song, cantata and tableaux. The numbers of their program are so varied in character and so artistically presented that there is not a dull moment from the beginning to the end. The children are delighted; everybody is instructed and amused.

Aside from the literary and artistic merit of the entertainment, the modest and charming personality of the Adams Sisters makes them favorites wherever they go. The two little ladies, only 46 and 49 inches in height respectfully, about the size of the average boy or girl of four or five years.

The Boston Times says of them: The Lilliputian Sisters (Misses Lucy and Sarah Adams) gave a charming entertainment. The program consisted of song, duets, dialogues, recitations and posings especially adapted to the performers. Applause was enthusiastic and complimentary remarks were heard on every hand.
