LEACH BROTHER'S
LEXINGTON, OREGON

SENTENCE SERMONS

By Henry F. Cope.

There is no justice without love.
Tin and sorrow often have the same
root.

Life's rest comes in its toil.
You cannot give life to men without giving life for them.

You do not escape from temptation
by fleeing from trial.

Love does not overlook faults: it looks through them.

It's a poor kind of faith that you have to have faith in.

Salvation may be sensational, but sensation is not salvation.

Religion is more than a prayer in
the slot machine.

There is more good in a bad boy
than in the best of dead men.

Many of our prayers are waiting the
indorsement of our deeds.

Human hearts are the only pages on which church history can be written.

Where the life knows no waste the heart knows no wealth.

It takes more than pulpit thunder to strike sin down.

The man who kicks most when the train is late is often the last one to get to church.

People will always receive good advice as a demonstration when they would reject it as a proposition.

When a man's head is swollen he is sure to get a twist in his eyes.

The most common fallacy in this world is the mistaking of moral specifications for the materials themselves.

Why are respectable hotels like the elysium of the gods? Because no bad spirits are permitted to enter them.

The Oregon Journal has made arrangements to publish the letters of
W. J. Bryan in its Sunday issue. Mr.
Bryan is on a two year tour of foreign lands, and his letters will make excellent reading, as Mr. Bryan is a brilliant writer. The Sunday Journal is a great newspaper, filled with all the good things of newspaperdom.
