CHAFF FROM THE STRAW STACK

The only thing in this world like a boy is a man.

A business man should neither doze nor bulldoze.

Unless we take God for a beginning we begin wrong.

Some God's best gifts are wrapped up in very common paper.

The stubs in check books cover a multitude of disappointments.

How much good some of us could do if we didn't wait until tomorrow to begin.

We would have more revivals if we had more preaching aimed at the sinners on the front row.

It's time to take your annual bath—externally and internally. Do it now. It's time to clean up.

An Indiana woman succeeded in laying in a stock of fourteen husbands before the authorities deemed it best to interfere and clip the wings of her monopolistic spirit.

There was a man in Lexington and he was wonderous wise. He marked a silver dollar in and gave it all to Lize; she went to the butcher shop and blew the dollar in—it wasn't long before the coin came back to him again. He took it to the merchant and bought a dress for Jane before the week had finished up back came that plunk again. He spent the coin in Lexington fifty times or more, but always got it back again and spent o'er and o'er; but when he sent a dollar up to Shears & Sawbucks store, 'twas gone for good, forever and he never saw it more.

It is all right to preach that a man should love his neighbor as himself—it sounds so good and platonic. But it is not always possible. Take for instance the man who has planted a fine garden and his neighbor has chickens which he persists in letting run at large. How can the man with the garden love that neighbor as himself? It simply can't be done so long as those chickens are not shut up.

Look at the condition of the working man to-day; where is he? The fitters are continually going up the spout; the plumbers are always in the gutter; the paper hangers are up against the wall; bakers are compelled to raise the dough; the policeman has to be on the beat to live; the shoemakers are compelled to work on the uppers and get waxed in the end; the clock makers run on tick and are never on time; the wash woman is always in soak and she is the only one you see hanging out on the line.

Unnecessary Expense

Acute attacks of colic and diarrhoea come without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by W. P. Mc Millan's Drug Store.

Read The Wheatfield and be happy.

NOTICE

All accounts with the Pastime due J. V. Grimes have been transferred to me. If you owe a bill drop in and settle at your earliest convenience and the favor will be appreciated.

FIRST STATUE TO ALEXANDRA.

The first public statue of Queen Alexandra has just been commissioned. George E. Wade, the well known sculptor, has been chosen to do the work. The destination of the statue is Hongkong, which has already given commissions for statues of King Edward and the Prince of Wales. The new statue is being erected out of a fund raised in connection with the Hongkong coronation celebration. The queen will be represented in her coronation robes. The statue will be of bronze and life size, and the pedestal will be either of granite or marble. The king, to whom the proposal was submitted through the governor of Hongkong, readily gave his permission. His majesty also approved the suggestion that the statue should be made by Mr. Wade.—London Express.

A Sensitive Post.

The manager of a press clipping bureau in New York said the other day:

"Not long ago I thought I would try to enlarge our business. Accordingly I sent prospectuses to well known people all over the world. In these prospectuses I said that our bureau read practically every publication that was issued and that a man by subscribing to us could read every word about himself that ever appeared in print.

"Well, we got a good many acceptances and a good many rejections. One of the latter came from the British post laureate, Alfred Austin. He said loftily:

"Mr. Austin does not care to pay for gnats' bites."

A Picture Post Card Craze.

The picture post card craze threatens to overwhelm the French post-office department. The following case is said to have been typical. From a microscopic seaside resort near Boulogne with 300 permanent inhabitants 30,000 picture post cards were sent off in a month. The local postmistress could not handle the mails. Her supply of one cent stamps gave out and the demand for stamps of that denomination at Boulogne was so great that she could not obtain there a new supply. The visitors had to use two cent and four cent stamps to send their cards. What the daily sendoff of such postals from popular watering places was can be imagined.

LUCKIEST MAN IN ARKANSAS

"I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lung; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time. My wife improved with first bottle and twelve bottles completed the cure." Cures the worst coughs and colds or money refunded. At W. P. McMillan druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
