LEXINGTON GROWS WITHOUT WATCHING

LEXINGTON WHEATFIELD

VOL. II

LEXINGTON, OREGON, THURSDAY OCTOBER 11, 1906

NO. 3

CHAFF FROM THE STRAW STACK

Weapons that fly off the handle have little effect on the walls of sin.

Homes are often closest knit about some grave of separation.

It's not the man with the putty backbone who is most truly resigned to the will of God.

Put your hand on the window and see if you can feel the pane.

Days are beginning to shorten and will continue until December 21st.

Adam should have been a very happy man. He never had to pay a dressmaker's bill or build a fire.

There's nothing in this world that is as ready to come when you invite it as trouble.

The time has passed for peek-a-boo hosiery and waists but peek-a-boo cranberry pies are much in favor.

The saddest people in this world are those who are always fighting against sorrow.

Don't be too hard on the girl who is always putting on airs; maybe she has't much else to put on.

What others think of you does not matter. It is what you know of yourself that makes you happy or unhappy.

"Love is honey mixed with gall," says a magazine writer. The girls furnish the honey and the boys the rest.

Every time a nervous woman has a pain she wonders if her children will have a step mother who will be kind to them.

The child that grows up in a progressive, happy home is very apt to raise children in a progressive, happy home.

An old lady of Lynn, Mass., who has just passed her hundredth and third birthday attributes her longevity to total abstinence from gossip.

A Cleveland woman is suing for divorce because her 18-year old husband smokes cigarettes. She ought to have made him show his fingers before she married him.

A Southern preacher says he expects to meet more editors and reporters in hell than members of any other profession. He doesn't explain what he is going to do there.

An Irishman was sitting in a depot smoking, the other day, when a woman came and sitting down remarked: "Sir, if you were a gentleman you wouldn't smoke here." "Mum," he said, "if yez was a leddy, ye'd sit father away" Pretty soon the woman burst out: "If you was my husband I'd give poison." "Well mum," returned the Irishman puffing away at his pipe, "if yez was me wife I'd take it."

A LUCKY POSTMISTRESS

The woman who sent her little boy to the drug store to exchange a second hand porous plaster for a toothbrush is no worse than the one who pays back a cup of borrowed sugar with a cup of salt.

In a neighboring town where excuses were required from absentees, the teacher received the following note:

AN AWFUL COUGH CURED

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with the whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got stout and fat," writes Mrs. Ora Bussard, Brubaker, Ill. This remedy is for sale by W. P. McMillan's Drug Store.

The Wheatfield List

"Please ma'am, Johnnie was kept home today. I have had twins. It shant occur again. Yours truly, Mrs. Smith.."

The people who are praying to be nothing are answered before they begin.

It's a wise old world that waits for the indorsement of every day honesty on the checks of extraordinary holiness.

It doesn't take long to choose between a sinner who swears once in a while and a saint who makes everyone swear all the while.

It's no use spending Sunday praying the Lord to enter your heart when you are spending the week barricading it with bad business.

IS THE MOON INHABITED
