Entered as second-class matter October 6, 1905, at the post office at Lexington, Oregon, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

THURSDAY DECEMBER 20, 1906.

A man stopped us on the street the other day and said we did not publish all the things that happened. We should say we don't. In the first place, there's somebody else depending on us for a living. If we published all that happened we would soon be with the angels. In order to please the people we must print only the nice things said about them and leave the rest to gossip. Yes, it's a fact, we don't print all the news. If we did wouldn't it make spicy reading? But it would be for one issue only. The next would contain our obituary, and there would be a new face in heaven. "All the news" is all right when it's about the other fellow.

A boy who was required to write an essay on hens produced the following: "Hens are curious animals; they don't have no noses nor no teeth nor no ears, they swallow their whittles whole and chew it up in their crops inside of 'em. The outside of hens is generally put in to pillers and into feather duster. The inside of a hen is sometime filled with marbles and shirt buttons and sich. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they'll dig up more tomato plants than anything that ain't a hen. Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum puddings. Hens have got wings and can fly when they get frightened. I cut off a hen's head with a hatchet and it frightened her to death."

You often see mother trying to "make" something out of her daughter, by giving her music lessons, and even sometimes the mother will take an interest in her son, with a view of "making" something out of him. But did you ever see a woman trying to "make" anything out of her husband? With a little assistance, many a man might do a lot of clever things, to the glory of his wife and family. But a woman never thinks of trying to assist her husband. She thinks of him as a hopeless brute and decides that if her family ever amounts to anything, it must come as a result of her daughters wonderful piano playing.

SCHOOL NEWS

School will close on Friday until the Second of January.

Miss Anna Leach and Mrs. Elza Pointer were school visitors.

Don't forget the school entertainment at the Artisan hall Monday evening, December 24.

These are busy days. Examination once more and drill for the entertainment use up all the time, recesses and noon included.

Preparations for the entertainment are nearly completed. Remember it is all around program consisting of instrumental music, songs, drills, recitations and dialogues.

A special school meeting is called to meet at the school house December 26, at one o'clock for the purpose of voting a special tax for general school purposes and sinking fund. All interested in such matters will please take notice and be on hand the day after X'mas.

The last meeting of the social club was held at the home of Miss Josie Eskelson. In the contests of the evening the side led by Miss Mary Graham came off winner. Hypnotism was tried with very good success on several members of the club. The club meetings are turning out as well as could be expected. All present express themselves at all times as well pleased.

We wish to call attention to the fact that hereafter pupils who have never attended school before will be admitted but twice a year, once when school opens and again at the beginning of the new year. If there are any persons wishing to send pupils who have never attended before, they must start them at the commencement of the next term for they will not be admitted after that. This is by instruction of the board of Directors.
