NOTICE

The best way to build up your town is to do your trading at home. Patronize your local merchants. If they succeed the changes are sure to succeed. When you send a dollar to a mail order house you have the goods and they have the money. Trade at home and we keep both the goods and the money.

The American Farmer says: "The Texas farmers are hotfoot after one of their Senators because they have caught him flirting with the Standard Oil heifer. After this infamous trust had been driven out of the state, the Senator used his 'fluence' to have it reinstated and it turns out that he was well paid for his work. Such men cannot be 'fired' too soon and there are some more like him from other states who need beheading."

C. E. Jones, who is manager for the Oregon Northern Railway Company, was in town last Friday from Eight Mile and informed the Times that work on the electric line has been abandoned until next spring, at which time some changes in the permanent survey will be made and possibly grading commenced.

Jack Clark, who was reported several times as having died at the county poor house a couple of weeks ago, really died Tuesday morning. His death had been expected at any time for the past fortnight, hence the premature reports. Joe Boyer, who had been nursing Clark through his recent illness, says that we can announce for sure that he is dead this time.
