CREAMERY TO START

Arrangements Made at Last Saturday Meeting to Commence Operations at Once

At the Creamery meeting last Saturday afternoon the general sentiment was in favor of starting the factory as soon as the services of a butter maker could be secured.

The Lexington creamery was built last year at an expense of $4500. but owing to conditions existing at that time, it was not considered advisable to start then.

A meeting of the directors followed the stockholders meeting at which Eph Eskelson was elected to fill the vacancy caused by Wm. Padberg disposing of his stock.

FOUND AT LAST

J. A. Harmon, of Lizemore, West Va., says: "At last I have found the perfect pill that never disappoints me; and for the benefit of others afflicted with torpid liver and chronic constipation, will say: take Dr. King's New Life Pills."

APHORISMS

There is no legacy so rich as honesty.—Shakespeare.
Tale bearers are as bad as the tale makers.—Sheridan.
However rare true love is, true friendship is rarer.—La Rochefoucauld
Discontent is the want of self-reliance: it is infirmity of will.—Emerson.
The greatest truths are the simplest: and so are the greatest men.—Hare.
There is a healthful hardness about real dignity that never dreads contact with others however humble.—Irving.
The silence of a friend commonly amounts to treachery. His not daring to say anything in our behalf implies a tacit censure.—Hezlett.
A man who does not learn to live while he is getting a living, is a poorer man after his wealth is won than he was before.—J. G. Holland.
Duty is what goes most against the grain, because in doing that we do only what we are strictly obliged to,

and are seldom much praised for it.—La Bruyere.

THE LAKE SKIPPER.

How He Taught a Salt Water Veteran to Hustle.

There was a salt water captain who, for reasons of his own, accepted a berth as first mate in a big passenger steamer on the great lakes. He was a capable seafaring man, but he did not know what "hustle" meant until he went aboard at Buffalo.

The salt water mate staggered in his tracks and made amazed protest. This was a 5,000 ton vessel, and giving her two coats of paint was several days' work by his reckoning.

"All right, I suppose you'll have to learn to move lively after snoozing around salt water all your life. You just pass that order along to the bos'n and tell him it's got to be done, and then you sit up and take notice."

The bos'n took the order calmly, as if it were in the day's work, and by nightfall the big steamer was spick and span with two coats of paint from her water line to her gaff rail. The sailor from deep water had learned his first lesson in the ways of the great lakes during the navigation season, when the hard driven shipping must be forced to do twelve months' work in half a year.—Ralph D. Paine in Outing Magazine.

Rebking Palm Oil.

"Palm oil," a synonym for "graft," is not at all a novelty in this sense. In 1627 Middleton wrote that "palm oil will make a pursuivant relent." The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries reveled in varieties of the metaphor. Greene speaks of rubbing palms with "the oil of angels," a humorous allusion to the coin named after the angelic figure stamped upon it, and "oil of angels" seems to have been quite a common joke in England.

No Cannibalism.

With a quivering hand we clip from an Irish paper the following transcript of an official notice in a Dublin government office: "Under no circumstances must government messengers be used for luncheon."—London News.

Obitvion is the flower that grows best on graves.—George Sand.
