THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

The country doctor is a man whose usefulness no one will gainsay. He often risks his own life to save the lives of others. We read of heroes of old and we cheer the heroes of our late wars, and yet the quality of their courage is not any higher than that of the man who at all hours of the day and night responds to the calls of the sick and distressed wherever they may be and to an extent worthy of our highest appreciation. He is subject to disagreeable rides that involve much danger. He performs his duty with a cheerfulness and at a personal sacrifice worthy of the highest commendation. His ideas of personal safety seldom disturb his philosophy, but day and night he continues his ministrations at the command of the people spread over large territory and separated by rough country and almost impassable roads. His bravery in riding through the darkness is characteristic of moral heroes. He is a doer of good all the time. He carries cheerfulness into home; he shows poor people how to get along better and he makes the rich do their duty more fully. He never declines to answer a call, however bad the weather or however poor the patient. In a material sense his life is not always a success, and comparatively few appreciate or reward him for his services. In all countries and in all sections are country doctors who deserve larger appreciation while they live and nobler memorials when they die.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by W. P. McMillan's Drug Store.

A BRILLIANT AND DURABLE WHITEWASH

This is usually known as the government whitewash, and no matter how often it appears in print, there is always a call for its reappearing. As it must be applied hot to any surface, it should be made or kept in a large kettle or portable furnace, in order to heat as wanted. It is claimed that about a pint of the mixture will cover a square yard upon the outside of a house, if properly applied, and that it is suitable for wood brick or stone, answers as oil paint, and being much cheaper, and will retain its brilliancy for years.

Brushes large or small are to be used, according to the neatness of the job required. Coloring matter may be used, varying the tinting to suit the taste. No matter what quantity is desired, these are the proportions in which the ingredients are to be used:

Half a bushel of good, unslacked lime; slack with boiling water, covering during the process to keep the steam in; strain the liquid through a sieve fine enough to retain all unslacked lumps. Dissolve a peck of clean, barrel salt in a little water, and add to the solution; boil to a thin paste, three pounds of rice and stir into this boiling hot; one pound of nice glue, previously (to dissolve the glue, first soak until soft, then put into a vessel, immerse this vessel in another larger one full of boiling water, and boil until liquid) in water, and half-pound of whiting. To this mixture add five gallons of hot water, stirring well, cover closely and let stand for several days.—The Dalles Optimist.

WHAT WOMEN CAN DO

If your cemetery is neglected and a disgrace to your community interest the ladies in it's improvement. If your school house grounds are a libel on our modern system of education, elect a live woman as school director. If you want a real live farmers' institute, elect a bright woman as secretary.

In a word if you want any public improvement pushed and completed set the women it, for they know how to pull the money out of your pocket and spend it to the best advantage. Women can do lots of things besides go to church, take care of babies and cook your meals. Nearly every successful farmer of our acquaintance has a smart wife, who really furnishes the brains to run the farm, while the old man gets the credit.—Joe Trigg.

Everyone knows that Spring is the season of the year when the system needs cleansing. Dades Little Liver Pills are highly recommended. Try them. Sold by W. P. McMillan.
