

Dalrymen everywhere are awakening to the fact that cleaniness in the stable means better milk and consequent ly better prices, and any arrangement that will help keep the milk giver out of the dirt should be of interest. The Illustration shows a stall that a writer in the Prairie Farmer claims will keep a cow perfectly clean. It is constructed as follows: Use a 2 by 4 for bottom of feed rack. Place this three feet from floor to stall. Use 1 by 4 strips placed about six inches apart, forming the rack. The strips should slope back

STALL FOR KEEPING COWS CLEAN. about sixty degrees. Place a 2 by 4 on edge from seven to eight feet from front of stall on the floor, depending on size of cow. Fasten the 2 by 4 down to floor, if set in dirt, with a good sized stake. If floor is made of plank, nail a block to floor, then spike the 2 by 4 to blocks. The cow when eating will stand with her hind feet just behind the 2 by 4. leaving the droppings behind it. When she lies down she will be compelled to lie in front of the 2 by 4, with her head under the feed rack. It is not necessary to have a gutter in a stall of this kind. There should be short partitions, however, to keep the cows from turning around.

Testing the Dairy Herd.

Records of the performances of dairy cows form the only accurate and safe basis for judging their value. It is the constant aim of progressive dairymen to improve their herds, and such improvement must depend largely upon culling the herd able animals. From the breeders' standpoint facility records are especially valuable in assisting in fluding customers for their stock. Many buyers insist on seeing records of dairy performance before purchasing. A record is al of the unprofit-

so of great help to the feeder. If he knows exactly what a cow is doing he can prepare the ration accordingly and often feed more economically. Again, a daily milk record enables a dairyman to detect the approach of sickness in a cow and thus to take steps to ward it off. Great inspiration is obtained from keeping a record, and nothing gives a dairyman more satisfaction than watching the improved returns from his herd.

The scales shown in the illustration is the nices, think made for secting but poses. It has two pointers. Before milking you hang the empty pail on the hook and set the colored pointer Then when you come to weigh the milk you read the weight as marked by this hand. A spring balance at can be bought for 25 or 35 cents will answer the purpose, but will not be as convenient. A shelf on which the bottles are kept, a record sheet and a lead pencil complete the stable equipment for testing your herd. It is but a moment's work to hang the milk pail on the scales, read the dial and record the weight. Mixing the milk and taking the sample will occupy a few mo ments more, says Kimball's Dairy Farmer, but all represent a very little time and a great deal of gain.

DAIRY POINTERS.

The cows should be well bedded both for comfort and cleanliness,

A bran mash now and then a short time before calving is most beneficial. If the udder is excessively caked and hard, it is well to draw a little milk from it. This will help to ward off Inflammation and garget.

It's poor policy to use anything but the best bull. A grade has no place at the head of your herd.

Do not move cows faster than a comfortable walk while on the way to place of milking or feeding.

The breeder who has a definite idea in view can improve his animals. The one who goes at it blindly never can. Too many dairymen do not know whether their cows are paying or not. They do not know which are the good and which the poor ones, Make a study of the herd of cows, select the best ones, sell the poor ones of you keeping the cows. In all well regulated Mirarles there are signs posted in conspicuous places creamery, flouring mill, good hotel, two bearing the one word "Silence." Simflar signs should be posted in every milking shed.

If you want a ventilator to draw well, says an Ohio dairyman, run it straight up and do not put any curves or dips in it, and let no man tell you that the middle of the barn is the livery stables, meat market, newsproper place to have the ventilator. I would rather have four ventilators than one.

Sunlight is the great natural dishfectant. Sunlight and pure air are two great essentials to the health of man and beast. Dark, poorly ventilated and filthy stables are disease breeding grounds. Keep the stables clean and let the sunlight and fresh and getting rid air penetrate every nook and corner therein. Provide plenty of windows In the stables and fix them so they can be opened and closed with ease and
