Arthur Kuhn Writes About Oregon.

The following extract is taken from an interesting letter written by Arthur Kuhn, a resident of Mosier District, whose home is in the Grand View Farm Section. Mr. Kuhn's letter is written to his home paper in Illinois, and we will venture to say that it didn't miss its mark in enthusing the readers of his home paper, with the ultimate result that many of them will flock to the Golden West—this land of wonderful possibilities, climate and scenery, to make their permanent homes. We quote from the letter:

Editors Times, Champaign, Ill. Dear Sirs: How would you like to hear from an Oregonian, a former Champaign resident? I have been a "webfoot" for more than two years, residing in the city of Portland up to about two months ago. They say "web foot" for a nickname. Some tell you that it rains thirteen months in a year in Multnomah county and in the Willamette valley, but that is a joke. It does not rain any more in Oregon than it does in Illinois. We get rain here instead of snow.

I have become a full-fledged farmer, or rancher, in the noted Hood River district at Mosier, Oregon. I bought some apple land here two years ago and for the past two months have been working hard on my orchard. I have 1,100 apple and peach trees, also ten acres of potatoes. Here they get as high as $2,000 an acre for good bearing orchard land. This fall I will send Joseph Kuhn & Co. some of the apples that are raised on this land. The apples are bought by New York and foreign buyers to ship. That is the first choice, which are bought in September and October while the fruit is still on the trees, and packed by professional packers. All the apple raisers belong to the Fruit Growers' association and they sell the apples and the raisers only furnish the boxes. They receive from $3 to $15 per box, containing from 43 to 105 apples according to size. One often hears the remark that we raise in New York, Illinois, Colorado or other states just as good looking apples. Yes, that is true. But there are no apples raised in the United States that will ship and keep as well as those raised in this Hood River valley. The soil is a red shot lava sand and also a powder gravel. The first they irrigate, the other requires no irrigation. My apple trees are yellow Newtons, Spitzenbergs, Red Cheek Pippins, Baldwins and Winter Bananas; also have some Royal Ann, Lambert and Bing cherries; also berries of all kinds. When I tell you that this a contented life on a farm you may smile, but I am perfectly satisfied and intend to stay with it. Nature in all its splendor can be seen in this country. We are 1,285 feet in altitude and the frosts do not reach us often; we look down on the winding Columbia and Klickitat rivers and at night the search lights from railroad engines are flashing on our yard at times. There is yet land in this district to be had at $50 per acre and up.

Population is conducive to industrial expansion—the homeseeker and the farmer are potent factors in the development of the country, and as Oregon gets settled with these desirable elements we shall have a state that will create a demand for Oregon's raw material and as the demand grows so will all our industries grow and multiply. About two-thirds of the state is without rail roads, and 60,000 acres of land is not farmed or used.

Yours very truly, Arthur Kuhn, Mosier, Ore.

Mrs. G. J. McCoy, of Wheeler County, spent Tuesday night with her editor's family. She was on her way home from a months visit with relatives in Portland.

Richard D. Tryon.

[Republished from the issue of May, 25th with corrections.]

Died at his home near Mosier, Sunday night, May 23rd, George D. Tryon, age sixty six years. Mr. Tryon had been afflicted for some time with a complication of diseases. He was under treatment at The Dalles Hospital for several weeks earlier in the Spring, and came home feeling better, thinking that if he could get onto the ranch he would get well. Instead, however, he grew worse, altho everything was done for him by relatives and friends that could be done, the Odd Fellows especially, of which organization the deceased was a member, giving him every attention possible.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the local lodge of Odd Fellows who attended in a body from their hall to the church and cemetery where the beautiful and impressive Odd Fellows burial service was rendered. The funeral sermon at the church was preached by the Rev. W. H. Quinn, of Dufur, an old friend of Mr. Tryon. The grave was beautifully decorated with bouquets and wreaths.

Deceased leaves a wife, Anna Tryon, a sister and a daughter and two sons, the latter, J. P. and Will Tryon, living in The Dalles.

Cards of Thanks.

We wish to thank the Odd Fellows and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father, Mr. Richard Tryon. The family.

Sturgess Ridge.

Mr. Morden returned from Portland Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturgess took dinner with Theo. Coates and his mother one day last week.

The whole ridge took in the celebration Saturday, with the exception of G. W. Grose and family who failed to find his horses. It was quite a disappointment to the family.

As I came along Monday I saw N. P. riding the reaper so I guess the 4th did not get away with him.

Mr. Huskey's little folks were not at the celebration, fearing the whooping cough. I saw Grandma Huskey bright and smiling and having a good time with the rest of the people. Everything went along very nicely. We think every one had a good time.

S. M.

Mr. S. D. Fisher, who has for some time been working at Rainier, came home Saturday evening to spend a few days with his family, and returned to that place Tuesday.

Mr. S. Ring and wife, Mrs. A. Simon and son, Nate, Mrs. Breslau and daughter Barbara, of Portland, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kuhn at their ranch at the Grand View Fruit Farms. Mr. Ring is the superintendent of the work of the underground subway in Portland.

All the telephone and other wires of the Portland R. W. & L. Co. are being put under ground. The work will take two years longer before it will be completed, having started it over a year ago. Mr. Ring was selected out of 600 men in New York to superintend this work; he also was one of the superintendents in laying the underground cable and wires on the suspension bridge at New York. Mrs. Ring remained for a visit here.
