Phil. Arthur, an experienced orchardist of Hood River, has taken charge of the work on T. W. DeBussey's place in Grand View Fruit District, and has moved his family up. More land is to be prepared at once for 1000 trees that are now on the place ready to be set, making in all over 8000 fruit trees of the best varieties which Mr. DeBussey will have on the ranch. He also contemplates building a new house and making other improvements as soon as the new Mosier-Dalles road is opened up.

Bazaar a Success.

The ladies of the Aid Society may congratulate themselves on the signal success which attended the holding of their Bazaar in Stroup's Hall, last night. A large crowd was present and all appeared to thoroughly enjoy themselves. The different booths were beautifully decorated with various articles of fancy work and most of them were soon sold. The refreshment booth, where dainty lunches were served, was well patronized.

Annie Haacke won the sofa cushion given to the most popular young lady, and Dr. Nick Johnson proved to be the shrewdest guesser on the number of beans in a jar, winning a beautiful doily. The grab bag furnished amusement for young and old. The "art gallery" was an attractive feature. The "palm room," where you got your fortune told, was crowded most of the time and great revelations were made as shown by the lines in the palm of the hand.

Something over a hundred dollars was realized, which will be used in repairing the Baptist church.

The Deschutes river has been misbehaving itself shamefully of late and knocking in the head all traditions concerning its temperate habits and inability, even to "wet its back up." It has long been claimed that the river never rose more than a foot, and that there was more water in the river a hundred miles inland than there was at its mouth. This peculiarity is due, so it is said, to the fact that a large volume of water continually finds its way into fissures in the lava beds and does not flow back into the river. Anyhow, these fissures couldn't absorb the extra rainfall of a week or so and the result was that the river rose up on its hind legs for about ten feet, surprising the natives and sweeping away several construction camps belonging to the two railroad companies.

Warning to Parents.

Parents, imagine the horror of having your boy brought home some day mangled out of all semblance of a human being or minus a leg or arm. Pleasant to contemplate, is it not? Well, you'll be "up against" just such a proposition as that if you don't keep your boys away from the railroad. Small boys have been seen recently climbing onto moving freight trains. Of course every lad thinks he is a little bit smarter than a fool and can do this stunt repeatedly without danger; but some time some fool will attempt to be smart once too often and will get caught either between the cars or under them, presenting a horrible example to his foolhardy playmates.

Doubtless the parents of these boys are ignorant of their actions and it most certainly behooves them to inquire into the manner in which they spend their time when away from home or school. "Little Johnnie" might make a very pretty angel, but what parent is ready to have his hopeful wear wings? A good sound spanking in time may save "little Johnnie's" life and incidentally the price of a beautiful white casket. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Good Road Needed

Mosier and Hood River are so close together and have so much in common, their interests are so identical, it seems like a short sighted business policy to keep the two towns so widely separated by such poor roads. To be sure, travel is easy and quick by rail (when trains are on time), but the hours are so inconvenient that people going to Hood River are forced either to take the morning train down and come back in the forenoon, often before they have time to transact their business, or go down in the afternoon and wait until 11 o'clock at night, usually, before they can get home.

With a good wagon road connecting the two towns, one that people could travel with comfort to themselves and their teams, business and social relations will increase wonderfully. We certainly need a better road, and it is stated that it would not require a large expenditure of money to put a good road across the mountain. Perhaps when the automobile road between Portland and Hood River is completed it will be extended through to The Dalles and on to the Idaho line, as has been suggested.

A Pleasant Time.

Last Tuesday night, at the regular meeting of Beacon Lodge of Odd Fellows, after the third degree had been conferred upon two new members, a fine luncheon was served. A number of Rebekahs "happened" in and joined in the festivities, bringing some good things to eat, to which everyone did full justice. The sisters sure know how to cook and the brothers sure know how to EAT. Resolutions were passed expressing regret at the absence of Brother H—. The only possible excuse that could be offered for his non-appearance was that he hadn't been put "next." However, brothers S—, B— and K— were present and made strenuous efforts to "take up the slack" at the table occasioned by brother H—'s absence. Beacon Lodge is in a flourishing condition, both financially and numerically, and the prospects are bright for a decided increase in membership this winter. The boys are becoming quite proficient in their team work and before winter is over the work of Beacon Lodge will compare favorably with that of any lodge of its size and age in the country.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Teddy Young was absent one half day.
Maxwell Kibbee has discontinued his school work.
Mary Armstrong was sick Monday.
The Conner children have been absent this week.
Ray and Clyde Bailey were absent Wednesday.
The whispering report is improving.
Mrs. Gove's pupils were detained rather late Tuesday to learn a spelling rule.
Carl Seufert, of Moscow, Idaho, was a visitor this week.
We have been requested to give the entertainment again, but have decided to have a box social on Dec. 13th. Place of same will be announced later.

Efforts are being made to procure funds for the purpose of building the automobile road from Portland to Hood River. Recently $3000 was subscribed in twenty minutes in Hood River, and it is expected that $10,000 will be raised in Portland. It is probable that the towns on the line of the proposed road between these two points will subscribe enough more to insure the building of the road.
