A Pertinent Query.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—

As a question of expediency or etiquette I don't know where or with whom to file a complaint. Can you advise me?

It is this way: When building operations were commenced last year for the Christian church, workmen were sent to secure rock along the road near the falls. So much waste stuff was thrown down that the gutter was completely filled and water has been diverted into and across the graveled roadway.

Now, who should make this right, the church builders who did the damage, or the road supervisor who presumably permitted it?

COUNTRY SUBSCRIBER.

It would appear to most persons that, ethically, the persons directly responsible for any damage done to the road aforesaid should repair that damage, and that the road supervisor was remiss in his duty in failing to have the road repaired. However, it is up to the parties directly interested to answer "Country Subscriber's" inqury.—ED.

Church of Christ Notes.

Oh, yes, we are smiling because so many came to Bible School and Church services on Feb. 27, but we were surprised and disappointed at not seeing several out at the evening service, whom we expected. Their names? No.

Say, young man, or lady, we want you to come and visit John Carroll's young people's class, on Mar. 6, at 10:30 a. m.

Subjects next Lord's Day are: Morning, "Should Christians Attend Church, and Why?", and in the evening, "Where and What is Hell?" Don't think there is any? Come and hear us about it, anyway.

Minister.
