The Analysis.
"Did you have the soil of your back yard analyzed by the agricultural department?"
"Yes. They said it consisted largely of glass, tin and putty, with traces of builder's lime, and suggested that it might do to raise a mortgage on it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Doctor Explains.
Deacon Giles—Doctor, there's a question I have been wanting to ask you. In what language did the ass speak to Balaam?
The Rev. Dr. Fourthly—In his own language. Balaam had been making an ass of himself and he had no trouble in understanding.

Its Distinguishing Feature.
Sprockett—You've talked a good deal about your new automobile. What is there so specially attractive about it?
Sparker—When I come along with it this afternoon in front of your place of business just you take a good look at that girl on the front seat.

"The Newly Weds."
Sometimes we interpret too literally. "I want to learn to make jelly," said the newly installed housewife. "Is it hard?"
"Oh, Lord, no, mum!" replied the cook, with supreme pity. "It's soft."

Worms

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape worm 45 feet long. I was with Matt Brock, Millerburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. I use them myself and find them beneficial for most any disease caused by impure blood."

"Well," interrupted the small son of the guest, setting down his cup, "somebody's stung you with a sour cow."—Toledo Blade.

There's a Reason.
Physician—I have told you to take long walks in the open air, and you are not doing it.

Not Particularly Impressed.
Mr. Upsome—You had a good time seeing the Riviera while you were abroad, I presume.
Mr. Struckett-Ritch—Er—yes, but one performance was enough for me. I've seen it played lots better right here in Cincinnati.—Chicago Tribune.

Thought Quickly.
"What is a totem pole?" his wife asked.
"A totem pole," he said, thinking fast, "is the rail—or pole—on which an objectionable citizen is ridden—or toted—out of the community."—Buffalo Express.

CROPS FOR DRY FARMING.
Fall-Sown Grains Generally Best for This Purpose.
Wheat is the great money-making crop of a large part of the semi-arid West. It is not particularly a drought-resistant crop, although certain varieties appear to succeed better than others in the dry districts. The hard Red Turkey or Russian wheat is the type or variety which has proven hardest and most productive throughout the Western part of the winter wheat belt. In the spring wheat states the standard sorts grown are Fife and Bluestem, which are also hard wheats. The Durum, or Macaroni wheat, is rapidly coming into use in the Northwestern states, and it appears to be harder and more productive than the ordinary spring wheats. This wheat was introduced from Russia, where it has long been grown in a climate and under conditions similar to those of the western part of the Northwest states. It is decidedly a "dry land farming" crop, and it is the hope of those interested in introducing this wheat that it may prove a success in districts where the rainfall is not sufficient or is too uncertain to grow the common wheat, and thus extend profitable wheat growing still farther west and into the semi-arid lands of the Mountain states.

At present, with the varieties grown, the success of the wheat crop in the West is more largely due to the fact that the crop grows during a part of the year when drought is least apt to prevail than to the drought-resistant character of the crop. But wheat is a deep feeder and a rapid grower. The plant draws its food and moisture from a large volume of soil and is able to withstand considerable unfavorable weather conditions; yet the crop is often materially injured and the yield decreased by drought during almost any period of its growth. By hot winds and unfavorable weather conditions a promising crop may be destroyed in a few days.

Wheat cannot stop growing and remain dormant during an unfavorable period of growth, as does kafir corn or sorghum. The grain must finish its growth and mature in about a certain period, whatever the conditions for growth may be.

Spring wheat is not well adapted for growing in Kansas, but with sufficient moisture to start it in the fall, and with the usual spring rains, winter wheat is a profitable crop, even in the western counties of the state, where the annual rain fall does not exceed fifteen to twenty inches.

However, the method of growing the crop are crude. Often the growing farmer plants so many acres that he is unable to farm the land well, and the result is a poor crop, if the season is at all unfavorable.

Some farmers, however, are adopting better methods. Enough good farming has been done to prove that it pays to cultivate and till the land well. Mr. H. W. Campbell reported remarkable results from practice of his system of culture on the Pomeroy model farm, in Graham county, Kansas. For several years this farm was made to produce twice as much wheat per acre as the average crop in the surrounding country, with an other treatment of the soil except thorough tillage and cultivation.

At the Fort Hays Branch experiment station, in Ellis county, enough has been accomplished in the seasons since that station was established, to demonstrate that in the semi-arid West good farming pays as well or even better than it does in the rich farming states of the Mississippi valley.

Emmer.
Emmer has proved to be especially hardy and drought-resistant, and in the Northwestern states this grain has given greater yields per acre than barley or oats. However, at the Fort Hays station, in Western Kansas, emmer has not proved as hardy and productive as barley and oats. As a feed emmer will hardly take the place of barley and oats, but it may be ground and fed in combination with these grains or with corn. Wherever barley or oats produce well emmer is not an especially profitable crop to grow, but in those sections of the West in which the grains mentioned cannot be successfully grown, emmer may prove to be a profitable crop.

Barley.
Barley is successfully grown in Kansas farther west than any other spring grain. In fact, barley is produced in larger quantities in the western counties of Kansas than in the central and eastern counties. The counties producing the largest number of bushels in 1900 were as follows: Pawnee, Barton, Ness, Rush, Thomas, Pratt and Hodgman. Each of these counties produced over 150,000 bushels of barley in the year mentioned.

Winter Rye.
Another crop that grows successfully in western Kansas is winter rye. This crop, however, is not grown as extensively as barley, and is apparently a less profitable crop to grow than wheat.—Dry Farming Bulletin.

Arrests Follow Crash.
Birmingham, Ala.—The first criminal action taken as a result of the failure of the cotton firms of Steele, Miller & Company, of Cornith, Miss., and Knight, Yanney & Company, two months ago, resulted in the arrest of J. A. McKnight in this city and John M. Miller in Decatur, Ala., members of the firm of Steele, Miller & Company. They are charged with sending forged bills of lading through the mails. McKnight was released on bonds of $15,000. The amount involved in the failure of the two firms is $8,000,000.

Train Robbers Confess.
Fairfield, Cal.—Carl Dunbar Bishop, of Kansas City, Mo., who, under the name of Charles Dunbar, was arrested here as a suspect in connection with the robbery of the China and Japan fast mail near Benicia last April 17, has not only confessed his complicity in that crime, but has also admitted that he and his partner, Joseph C. Brown, robbed the postoffice at Armdale, Cal., last June 15. Brown had previously confessed the train robbery.

NOT IN THE LEAST ALIKE.
Different Ways Taft and Roosevelt Have of Looking at Life.
Externally Taft is everything that Roosevelt is not, writes William Allen White. Taft begins each day by a weary, painful, perfunctory half-hour of gymnastic gyrations—a kind of canned exercise—which, having been opened and devoured, finishes his physical duty for the day. Roosevelt takes his exercise in the open, with the joy of a satyr in it. Roosevelt's mental processes are quick, intuitive and sure. Until he has made up his mind he is a most open-minded person. Taft works it out. He is never too sure to receive new evidence. Taft grasps a proposition, wrestles with it without resting and without fatigue until it is settled or solved. His joy is found at the end of the road. Roosevelt's joy is found in many roads. He wears of monotony, and keeps divers interests in his mind, many things to employ him under the head of unfinished business. If Providence is slow in sending wars and rumors of wars—what ho, for the nature fakirs! Let us be up and doing.

Roosevelt has a marvelous moral sense; he has a detective's nose for finding iniquity in measures. Taft has a prodigious capacity for hard, consecutive work and an instinct for evidence founded on a broad, charitable affection for men, whom he knows as a hunter knows his dogs; and Taft finds the right of things, as Roosevelt finds it, but by a different path. Taft on his meals. Roosevelt, absorbed in work or play, would eat hay and not know it. With Roosevelt culture is like bear hunting, trust fighting, muck raking or fence jumping, a rampant, gorgeous reaction upon his insatiable soul. With Taft culture is a sweet, indefinable mental and moral digestant tincture that colors his soul's eyes so that he may see a delightful world; or, to change the figure, it is an easy garment, a sort of drapery of his spiritual couch, which he wraps about him and lies down to "pleasant dreams."

CARS BURNED; POLICE STONED

Riotous Strikers Attack Trains on Grand Trunk Road.

Steal Caboose from Rapidly-Moving Train and Then Cut Train in Many Sections.

South Bend, Ind.—As a climax to a night and a day of rioting in the yards of the Grand Trunk railway in which a freight train of 50 cars was cut into ten sections, Pinkerton detectives were stoned, and five passenger trains were stalled for hours, an attempt was made to wreck eastbound passenger No. 8, known as the Detroit and New York express. The engineer, by chance, saw the thrown switch in time to bring his train to a stop and prevent a catastrophe.

When he left the engine to investigate he was stoned by the mob, in which were many foreigners, but the timely appearance of police prevented him from being seriously hurt. Shortly after the attempt to wreck the train was made, Jay Free, a car repairer, in the employ of the railroad, was shot and seriously wounded by John Peck, a Pinkerton detective, and a step with two companions, Eldridge Graham and William McReynolds, all of Battle Creek, Mich., were arrested and are now being held by the police pending the outcome of Free's wound, which is in the back close to the spine. Free is in the hospital.

In the course of the afternoon a mob which congregated at Olivers, the first station on the Grand Trunk within the limits of South Bend, burned several cabooses, but efforts to burn freight cars were made fruitless by the arrival of detectives and the fire department.

The rioting began when a freight train of 50 cars entered the city under full speed, evidently with the intention of rushing through South Bend without a stop. Shortly after it passed the station it was discovered that the caboose had been lost and a stop was made to pick up the missing car.

Almost immediately a gang of men ran between the cars, released the air plugs and cut the air hose, thus making it impossible to move the train. At the same time the Pinkerton detectives who showed themselves were stoned. Realizing that the situation was desperate C. A. McNut, the local agent, sent in a hurry call for the police and telegraphed Governor Marshall for troops. The governor, however, declined to order out the militia until he was assured the police were not able to cope with the situation.

EXPLOSIONS JAR CINCINNATI.

Falling Walls Injure Many and Big Fires Follow.

Cincinnati—Two explosions wrecked a manufacturing plant at Central avenue and Findlay street, starting a conflagration that destroyed three adjoining plants.

Five firemen were buried by falling walls, but all were taken out, seriously injured.

The combined losses by the fire are estimated at $250,000. The first explosion occurred in the plant of the Cincinnati Ball Crank company and is supposed to have resulted from natural gas. The detonation was heard for a distance of more than a mile. Other plants badly damaged were the Century Printing company and Cincinnati Lithographing company.

Settlers Going South.
Washington—Migration from the Central and Northeastern parts of the country, including Western Canada, to the Southern and Southeastern states, is attracting the attention of the immigration authorities. The immigration officials expect soon to receive a special report from Montreal bearing on the subject of immigration, including the return of Americans to this country, and pending receipt of that report, decline to discuss the matter for publication. Experts say the movement will begin next October.

No Blockade at Bluefields.
New Orleans—The departure from here of the steamers Imperator and Dictator marks the resumption of trade between American ports and Bluefields, Nicaragua, which was brought to a standstill several days ago when Norway declared her recognition of the so-called blockade of Bluefields by Madrid. The Imperator cleared for Bluefields via Cape Gracias and the Dictator sailed direct. The resumption of trade between the ports is the direct result of the State department's orders declaring Bluefields an open port.

Prohibition Law Wins.
Dallas, Texas—The count of votes in the Texas Democratic primary election has not materially changed the previous estimates. Oscar B. Colquitt, anti-Prohibitionist, has been nominated for governor by a plurality which probably will reach 60,000. Two Prohibition candidates are practically tied for second place. The proposition to submit to the people a prohibition amendment to the constitution carried by about 20,000.

80 Killed in Cyclone.
Milan, Italy—The list of the dead in the cyclone which swept over the district northwest of Milan has increased to 80 and the injured number several hundred. The material losses are estimated at many millions. Assistance has been sent to the villages which suffered most severely from the storm, but there are many homeless to be taken care of.

Fire Sweeping Colorado.
Fort Collins, Colo.—A force of 35 men has left here in automobiles to fight forest fires which are raging on Stove Prairie at the head of Buckhorn and Redstone creeks, 20 miles west of here. According to reports received here the fire has already destroyed considerable timber and is sweeping into the national forest reserve.
