OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Portland, Ore. Nov. 29. (Special) - That Oregon should have an annual dairy show of large proportions is the belief of Dr. W. S. McClure, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry in the Northwest.

"Western Oregon," said he, "should become the greatest dairy country in America. Natural advantages here are equaled nowhere else and the state should exert an effort to increase its dairy output 100 per cent.

"If Portland would promote and develop a Western dairy show, it will in a few years become the largest and most interesting livestock exposition held west of the Mississippi River.

Loyal Oregonians have reason to feel proud because of the tribute to Oregon apples paid by Prof. H. E. Vandeman, judge at the Spokane Apple Show, who declared the car of Spitzbergs winning the sweepstakes prize, which were grown at Hood River, were the most perfect apples he had ever seen.

February 1, 1911, is the date fixed for the inauguration of train service into Interior Oregon over the new Hill line up the Deschutes. By then it is expected the line will be in operation to Matolius, 150 miles south of the Columbia River.

The display taking first prize at the recent Dry Farming Congress in Spokane was grown and exhibited by Tillman Reuter of Madras, and it was so good that the exhibit has been secured for permanent display of the Chamber of Congress of Portland.

Four hundred thousand invitations to attend the Oregon Good Roads Convention December 12 have been sent to representative citizens in every county of the state. The convention plans to put into definite shape the practical road building campaign to follow the passage of the recent amendment giving counties the right to bond themselves for highway improvements.

Portland leads the entire United States in wheat exports for the first ten months of 1910. At the present lick, it is not unlikely the Beaver metropolis will stand first in the country for the entire year.

Innovation in Sunday School Work

Mr. Editor:- Realizing that this is a community composed of moral and religious people, I thought they would be interested in knowing that commencing next Sunday the Union Sunday School would adopt a new plan of graded lesson study in the primary, junior and intermediate departments.

The lessons are divided in courses as follows: primary department, five years, ages 3 to 8 years; junior department 4 years, ages 8 to 12 years; intermediate department 4 years, ages 12 to 16 years.

The aim in the first year course in the primary department consists of Bible stories, pictures, stories from nature, etc., teaching the child to know God, the Heavenly Father, who loves him, provides for and protects him.

The intermediate department first year course takes up Bible biography, a study of Bible heroes, Bible geography, map work, modeling, etc., the first lesson being on Jacob, the man who conquered himself, the aim being to enforce the necessity of self control, and to picture the heroism of self mastery.

In confection with the graded lessons there will be in June of each year an annual graduation and promotion exercise, scholars being graduated from departments and promoted from first year to second year grade, etc. An engraved diploma will be given to each graduate in every department.

These lessons in all of the departments will be intensely interesting, both to teachers and scholars and be the means of building religious and moral characteristics in the lives of the scholars, that will make men and women who will undoubtedly attain to places of prominence in the world and be a power for right living and the doing of good service for others.

The graded lesson work will be extended to the higher departments of the school just as soon as circumstances will permit.

The Union Sunday School meets in the Baptist Church building every Sunday at 10 a. m., and everybody, young and old, who does not attend Sunday School elsewhere, is cordially invited to come and take advantage of improved and modern Bible study.

Oregon Apples Liked in Austria

A great market for Oregon apples is presented in Southern Austria and Eastern Italy, says Victor J. Kubelka, traveling passenger agent for the Austro-American Steamship Company, who has just returned from a visit to his native home near Trieste, and who visited local transportation men yesterday.

The country to which he refers is itself an apple producing section but the trees are old and the people have not developed the industry to such an extent as growers in the Northwest. Oregon apples have been sold there and meet with general favor, he says. It will be difficult, however, to introduce them because of the freight and tariff duties, which will put the price out of proportion with that of the Austrian product.

"The tariff is not a problem with the Austrian people," he explained, "as America ships in its products at prices so low that we can buy them cheaper in Austria than in America. In Vienna I paid $4 for a pair of shoes that had been made near Boston and which were quoted to me at $5 in this country. The same difference in prices prevails on American jewelry, flour and meat.

"But Europe is no longer eating the beef and pork that is packed in America. The packing house disclosures of 1906 checked the sale of Chicago meat abroad. England was the first to put up the bars. Germany followed. Now all of Europe is buying its meat from Argentine. I believe, however, that gradually the American product will be introduced again. It takes the people of Austria a long time to recover from the effects of a scare like that of a few years ago."

Mr. Kubelka resents the idea that the Austrian government is encouraging emigration of peasants and working men to America and says that the government is making every effort to keep its men at home. The military duty which the Emperor imposes upon his subjects, he says, is not the cause of the men leaving. He points to the fact that more than 90 per cent of the men who come here from Austria have already served in the army.

He admits that wages in America and particularly in the West are higher, but denies that working conditions are better. His contention is that in Austria the men work a smaller number of hours a day and are treated better by their employers than in this country and disclaims that the higher wages paid here discount the difference in conveniences.

"Oregon should not discourage the influx of foreigners from the countries of Europe," said Mr. Kubelka. "The state needs them to develop its great resources and to help build its railroads. The Austrian people are thrifty and in the end will make good citizens. They have been criticized for sending their money abroad, but they must do that to support their families. The next generation will have its families here and will not be under the necessity of sending its earnings away.

"While every man that leaves Europe fully intends to return, less than half of them ever go back. Those that return after a few years' absence nearly always are discontented and again turn to America.

"Not only are the poorer classes interested in this country but many of the nobility and some of the rich merchants are turning their attention this way for investment. Since the recent panic, most of the Austrian investors have forsaken the stock market and are seeking to place their money in land. Oregon will get its share of this."

OPPORTUNITY Has no particular "calling days"-but is both good form and good business to be about the house when the Old Fellow does slip around. But still there is little or nothing to be gained by being there if you are not prepared to entertain a little and to profit by the visit. The idea we mean to convey is that if you are not able to take advantage of an opportunity when it comes you are not better off for its having been presented. Usually this requires either money or credit. Since most of us were not born with "good spoons in our mouths" it follows that we must lay by a part of what we earn if we are to accumulate any money. You can best do this by putting your savings in a good bank, which in time establishes a certain line of CREDIT. The MOSIER VALLEY BANK wants to help you to profit by the next opportunity that comes to you.

Prof. Vandeman attended an informal smoker held in the Hood River Commercial Club rooms recently to celebrate the victory of the Hood River apples at the Spokane Apple Show. Prof. Vandeman was one of the Judges at Spokane and also judged the exhibits at the Hood River Apple Show, last week. When called on for a speech, the Professor, in speaking of judging the apples and awarding the prizes, said that he and the other judges tried to find all the fault they could with the exhibit and made poor success. They tried to be merciless in their scoring, spending their time looking for defects rather than for the good points, as that was about all there was left to do. When they got through there was but one thing to do and that was to give the prize to Hood River. Mr. Vandeman said he was proud to see Hood River set the pace of the world in growing and packing apples. In his visits to all the important apple sections of the United States, he always told them to follow Hood River. He could not say it too often. In Virginia last year they had a good exhibit, the best they ever had, and he remarked that it looked "Hood Riverly." He hoped they would continue to improve. "I hope you will keep in the lead," said Mr. Vandeman. "Put conscience into the apple box and you will get the right reward. There has never been such an exhibition of apples in the world as you have this year. It has never been equaled. We have been called to judge your exhibit this year. As it will be hard to decide between you, we have determined to exact double penalties if we find the bottom of the box not as good as the top. It is possible we may have to look for the toenail marks of the mosquitos on the apples to determine a difference."
