Last Sunday's Oregonian contained a full page picture of a Mosier apple orchard. The photograph was taken by F. A. Shogren who owns the orchard, and whose little daughter, Alice, is seen standing on a ladder holding a basket of apples.

The Union Sunday School had the largest attendance last Sunday since the summer vacation. The new graded lessons are proving very satisfactory and the teachers and scholars are taking great interest in them. Saturday evening the School will give its annual Christmas exercises. Friends of the School are invited to The Home Coming Christmas Party.

The Fraser Stock Co. gave only two performances here this week, instead of three as advertised, on account of several of the company having had colds. This company contains some actors of ability, especially the young son of Mr. Fraser, who is all to the good in anything he undertakes. The Frasers left yesterday for Dufur. They may return to Mosier at a later date.

To accommodate the increasing patronage of the post office, our popular and efficient postmistress, Miss Hunter, has added 48 new lock boxes. This will be a great convenience to many who have heretofore been able to get their mail only when the general delivery window was open. There is perhaps a little less floor space in the box, but the space inside the office is arranged more conveniently for the quick distribution of mail.

Another Surprise Party

The beautiful weather and good roads enticed a number of friends to give themselves a special invitation to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Porter, at Mayerdale, last Monday evening.

The Porters evidently were not expecting company for their motto is "early to bed and early to rise," etc., and had just carried out the first part of the motto when the beautiful strains of "We won't go home 'til morning" were wafted upon the air from about fifteen voices from their front porch. The Porters' first thought was that a band of Greeks was serenading them and were questioning in their minds whether or not to let them in, when Mrs. Leedy opened the door and welcomed the crowd.

After several hours spent in social converse and eating candy, delicious refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Porter, assisted by Mrs. Leedy. The candy was made by Dr. Robinson, who is almost as successful at the confectionery art as at the operating table.

After a very amusing game of "brush" led by Dr. Johnson, the company departed, just in time to catch the last car for Riverbrink, Akerdale, and other stopping places on the line.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Porter, Mrs. Leedy, Dr. Robinson, Mrs. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Mosier, Mr. and Mrs. Fraedrick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shogren, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. N. Akers, Misses Hubinger, and Alice Shogren, and Master Evertt and Audrey Fraedrick.

Mr. Corbin, pastor of the Christian Church, expects to spend next week, after Sunday, at Junction City, Ore.
