Curious Paradox.

It is a curious paradox that the man with the strongest will is the man who yields the most quickly to opposition. He saves all his strength to throw it into the line of least resistance. He is a good general and does not waste himself battering away at an impregnable position, but makes a flank movement at once.

Study the world and its forces. Your strength lies in co-operation with them. Study men; leadership consists in knowing how to run with them. Public opinion is like an ocean liner; you cannot back it in a minute; you cannot guide it when it is going slow, and it can only be controlled by one who is riding on it.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good, but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and black-heads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

LARGELY MATTER OF FAITH

Proof of Authenticity of Relics, Religious or Historical, In Most Cases Impossible.

The authenticity of relics, religious or historical, must in many cases be largely a matter of faith; proof is often lacking, often indeed impossible to procure. The number of couches notable from the fact "that they have been slept in by good Queen Bess" shown in manor houses is legion and the same may be said of many other historical heirlooms the real history of which is lost in the mists of antiquity. How many pairs of gloves were given by King Charles I as keepsakes on the day of his execution? There are quite a number of claimants for the honor. One pair has recently been the cause of a law suit, and it was said in the course of the trial that they were given by the king to Bishop Juxon on the scaffold. There is yet another pair which has had a far stranger history than most Stuart relics, which have indeed little history, but a quiet passing from generation to generation in English country houses. They were sent by King Charles on the day of execution by a trusty hand to Speaker Lenthall "for amity's sake." Only one of the pair now survives, the other was burned in a bush fire in Australia. The precious gloves had gone there when the Lenthalls awhile ago left their homes and their lands and had, with Charles II.'s pardon of Lenthall, been cherished in many wanderings in Australia. The surviving glove and the pardon are now back in England, because happily the Lenthalls are back. It is quite likely that King Charles gave away several pairs of gloves, for gloves then were costly things—cities gave them to visiting sovereigns where now addresses or gold boxes are given. But in the days of the Stuarts gloves were costly enough at any rate to carry a sentiment, even a king's sentiment.

OLD AGE IS INEXORABLE

Men Find It Out When They Attempt to Frisk About in Boy Fashion.

If you ever doubt that you're growing old and sedate, you fathers, just take the kids out into the woods and see the difference between yourself of today and yesterday.

You see them plunging about with whoops of joy, and generally living gladly.

And you—well, when you try to sit down your knees creak, and the leaves beneath you don't seem as they once did.

The golden sunshine filters through the trees; the rustle of small living things resounds through the woods; the perfume of rich ripening things floats to you, and within you something is struggling to break loose.

You don't know just what it is, but it hurts. You are too old now to run and whoop and carry on like those kids. It would be beneath your dignity, but something within you seems calling to you, and your old body can't respond.

You want to yell and run—that is, you believe you do, but it's no use. Something is holding you back.

So there you sit and watch the children playing, and their happiness is as once yours was.

And it makes the heart ache to think of it—some day they will be even as you—longing to break, loose into joy born of the autumn, but held back. Held back by something that we call old age.

Fame at Last.

"Whatever is the matter, Percy?" asked the poet's wife, "why are you tearing your hair so?"

"O, Scribbler's Magazine has sent me an acceptance for a poem!"

"Why, that's grand! You have been trying to sell them something for so long."

"Well, perhaps it is, but I find the sonnet I meant to send them is right here on my desk and what I sent them was the backing sheet that I've been using on my typewriter for the last three months!"

Brood Mares.

Brood mares should, of course, be well sheltered both in summer and winter, but not to the exclusion of plenty of sunlight, fresh air and exercise. Handle them carefully and feed intelligently. Give the mare a minimum of corn and a maximum of protein-bearing feed, such as oats, bran and alfalfa. When she is not working let her have the run of a pasture or lot, with an open shed to protect her from heat or sudden storms.

Knees Became Stiff

Five Years of Severe Rheumatism

The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 14 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is another victory by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years, it kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's."

Bad Price, Bad Work.

Craftsmanship used to be the keynote of labor. The aim was to produce an excellent thing, to sell at a good price. The modern business man tries to produce quickly a rotten and fantastic article, so as to be able to sell at a bad price in enormous quantities. So far is this paradox true that a real economist nearly always buys the most expensive things, and the cheapjack is as often as not a millionaire.—R. R. Buckley, in London T. P.'s Weekly.

Heroic Treatment.

Little Marjorie, aged four, bumped her head on a key in the front door. She went in the house and put some cold cream on a rag and then went to the door and tied the key up carefully. As she was leaving she said: "I will call in the morning to see how you are."

Good Things Are Eternal.

A Swiss professor of agriculture has been experimenting with cultivation under colored glass, and finds, according to the Review Scientifique, that ordinary transparent glass gives the best results. WAS LAST TO SING FOR KING

Mme. Lorraine, American Singer, Sang Favorite Hymn for Late King Edward VII.

Much is being made of Mme. Alys Lorraine, the American opera singer, by British aristocracy just now. For she had the distinction of being the last to sing for the late King Edward VII. before his death.

She sang for the king his favorite hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," at his special request, for he seemed to have had a presentiment that the end was not far off. It was at Biarritz and the beautiful New York widow rose well to the occasion. Anticipating that the king would ask for this hymn, Mme. Lorraine stayed up several hours practising it on the previous evening. When the service was over, King Edward complimented the soloist with peculiar emphasis and said he hoped to hear her at Convent Garden. Before leaving Biarritz he sent Mme. Lorraine a present of a bracelet.

King Edward had already heard of her in connection with a successful concert she gave in London. She compiled a series of songs composed by royalty—some of them by members of King Edward's own family—and at this concert only these compositions were performed.

Mme. Lorraine has been a student of the serious school, both in Florence and Paris. Six years of hard study has given her a fine finish. Jean de Reszke says of her that she is an ideal Marguerite. Being big and blonde and of wonderful coloring, she looks the part naturally. Though not long before the public, Mme. Lorraine has won laurels at Baden-Baden, The Hague, Monte Carlo, Paris and London, and the adhesion of the British aristocracy to her cause this year means that a record winter season lies before her.—Kansas City Star.

A Merry Heart.

Cheerfulness should be a matter for religious cultivation, as much as honesty or benevolence. In truth, it is a species of benevolence, as well as invaluable in its reactionary effect. Conversely, moodiness and chronic depression are a supreme form of selfishness, unless occasioned by insanity. We have no more moral right to stand in people's sunlight than we have to rob their coal cellars or strangle their pet canaries—no more right to waste their staying power than to drop strychnine in their coffee.

An unreasonable moper is worse than a minus quantity in algebra, reducing renervating all around him.

One of the best short sermons ever written is the poem about the old woman whose cheerfulness and contentment are twins. "Cheerfulness is the strongest chain with which to bind a husband's affections. Be bright and merry before him, no matter what little foxes are destroying the vines in your own pet garden."

Marionette Theater.

One of the features of the theatrical exposition which took place in Munich recently was the marionette theater, of which an American, who attended one of the performances, writes: "The Munich zoo, where the exhibition took place, swarmed with theatrical people, artists and patrons of the stage. Every person found something to interest him, but the puppet theater was the chief attraction for us. We saw two performances—Offenbach's 'Pretty Maid of Elizando' and 'King Viola and Princess Clarinette,' by Muhlmann and Scherber. So closely did spoken words harmonize with the acting of the figures and so exactly did the manipulators of the strings and wires make the action suit the word that one fancied he saw living pygmies on the stage."

The Ancient Incubator.

Few of those who wrestle with the chicken-incubator problem, and often fail to solve it, realize how old an art they are struggling to master. Thousands of years ago Egyptians in one part of the world and the Chinese in another had the art of incubating eggs so highly developed that it was an hereditary profession, the secret guarded with religious sacredness and handed down from father to son. The odd stoves called "mammals" that the Egyptians used as incubators date back to remote antiquity. Even before the French Revolution the Paris markets had incubator chickens thanks to an apparatus, which was invented in France in 1777.

Good Work in South.

Miss Winifred Holt, who is prominent in the work of the Civic Federation in New York, has come to the aid of the southern colony, that was established by Miss Holman in North Carolina 11 years ago. The object is to help the mountaineers to a better life physically first, and then do what can be done for their intellectual development. All these mountaineers are said to be "belated ancestors;" that is, they are descended from the best class of English immigrants at the time of the settlement.

Lese Majeste.

Sir John Randles, representing England at the foreign steel magnates' banquet in Chicago, praised American business energy and alertness.

"The following conversation," said Sir John, "which was overheard between a manager and a clerk in the water works of a certain English town, could never have occurred in America. What the manager said was this:

"'I'm compelled to ask you, Simkinson, to change your desk to the room below, for you not only sleep during working hours, but, to make matters worse, you snore so loud that you continually wake up our revered superintendent in the next room.'"

A Setup Job.

"Are you the man from Sodder & Co.'s to do the mending of the water pipes?" asked Mr. Subbubs.

"Yes," replied the plumber, "and Mr. Sodder says it'll cost you $60."

"What? Why, he hasn't seen the job; he doesn't know how much I want done."

"Mebbe not, but he told me how much to do."

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject a prominent local druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfils every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and Bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper. Sold at druggists in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00.
