OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Portland, Ore. Apr. 4. (Special) -No less a financial authority than Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, New York, and formerly an assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, has handed out good advice to Oregonians this past week.

Mr. Vanderlip was entertained during the past week by the Portland Commercial Club. He expressed great confidence in the future of Oregon and says the very attractive appearance of the state impresses him with the wisdom of every man securing for himself and family a piece of land, for it will not be a great while until a poor man will be unable to get land.

In discussing the financial situation, Mr. Vanderlip expresses the belief that business conditions in the country at large are taking a hopeful turn. He finds banks are sound, crop prospects are good and there is general confidence in the future.

The exploitation of Douglas fir will be undertaken by the manufacturers of Oregon and Washington and a fund was set aside at a recent meeting to carry on a publicity campaign. It is felt that with such immense quantities of fir timber available in the two states, it can be given a much wider market in future.

Latest estimates of the number of new settlers who will come to Oregon during the present period of low colonist fares place the figure at 35,000. The movement is said by the railroads to be the heaviest since colonist periods were inaugurated and while not all who come will become permanent settlers, a great proportion will and eventually many who go back will return and make their homes here.

A resolution standing by the legislative appropriations for the state educational institutions was adopted during the past week by the promotion committee of the Portland Commercial Club. The resolution demanded adequate facilities for the education of the young and expresses the belief that the sums set aside by the Legislature are not at all excessive.

Checks are being sent out this week to pay the prizes just awarded by the judges in the prize article contest of the Portland Commercial Club, which secured a great deal of valuable publicity for Oregon and the Pacific Northwest. In all $5,000 was awarded in prizes among 80 successful contestants. An Oregon man, R. R. Howard, won the prize.

Pendleton wants more daylight and may turn the clocks ahead one hour on May 1. This will give that city Mountain Time throughout the Summer, and on October 1 the timepieces of the city will be set back as before. In this way, Pendleton people hope to make the most of the long days of the year.

Invitations have been sent to Oregon people to attend the North Yakima Blossom Festival April 15-22. At that time there will be thousands of acres of orchards in bloom throughout the Yakima Valley and a visit will be well worth while. Various attractions are being arranged for the entertainment of the visitors.

Salem's Gain Greatest

Salem lays claim to a unique distinction among all the capital cities of the United States. It has made a greater net gain in population than any other state capital. Salem shows additions to her population amounting to 231.9 per cent during the ten-year period, is given in the figures of the census. No other state capital comes anywhere near this record.-Hood River Glacier.

The Work of the State Forester

F. A. Elliott, of Salem, the newly appointed State Forester, is out betimes with a programme for the prevention of forest fires in Oregon. This is, seemingly, the old adage which proclaims the uselessness of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen applies to the warning of forest fires after the sky is lurid and the air dense with smoke from burning timber. The State Forester urges the people to cooperate with him in making effective the law passed at the late session of the Legislature, since only through such co-operation will it be possible to prevent the prevalence of forest fires during the dry season.

Mr. Elliott justly regards the provision which provides for a closed season for out-of-door fires of all descriptions, except under the most stringent regulations, from June 1 to October 1, inclusive, as one of the most important in the new law. This includes the vacation camping season, wherein the careless handling and abandonment of the camp-fires is responsible for greater forest destruction than is the incautious firing of the settlers clearing.

This closed season will undoubtedly work considerable hardship upon those who are striving to subdue brush and timber land for farming purposes, since it covers the period in which fire can be made most effective for this purpose. However, since not only the preservation of valuable timber tracts, but the homes, stock, standing grain and other resources of the farmers themselves demand protection from fire during these dry months, the restriction should be conscientiously observed. After all, if the starting is done early in the season, and the great windrows of brush are properly placed for drying, the fire will do its work in the premises, almost if not as effectively after the Fall rains have set in as if the danger match had been applied to the starting in August. Fires from this source will be much more easily controlled by prevention than will those of Summer campers. Yet the forest ranger who is vigilant and active, with a stringent law well weighted with penalty to support him, will be able to reduce the danger from fire in his district to the minimum. The promptness of the State Forester should be aided in this important work by the general public and especially by summer campers and those who are clearing land.-Oregonian.

SHOE BANK BURNED

An old lady living in one of the towns of Washington kept her savings in an old shoe, thinking that no one would know how much she had nor where she kept it. No one did know, but that very fact led to its destruction. Her daughter had the Spring Cleaning Fever, and never suspecting that the shoe contained anything of value, threw it in the fire, and a nice roll of bills was destroyed.

Your money deposited in the MOSIER VALLEY BANK will not burn up and will be insured against theft. And no one beside yourself and the officers of the bank will know how much you have.

Tomorrow's Burden

It has been well said that no man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to the burden of today that the weight is more than a man can bear. Never load yourself so, my friends. If you find yourselves so loaded, at least remember this-it is your own doing, not God's. He begs you to leave the future to him and to mind the present.-George Macdonald.

How Old is Your Horse

There are four ways to tell the age of a horse, according to Prof. E. L. Potter of the Oregon Agricultural College: by his teeth, by his ribs, by the flesh on his tail, and by the skin on his cheeks. In a young horse the cheek skin is soft and elastic, and flies back quickly when raised; in an old one it is lifeless and goes back but slowly.

Old horses apparently have a wider and more distinct space between their ribs than young ones, and with age the flesh on the tail of a horse shrinks, making the joints more distinct than they are on a young horse.

Judging by the changes in the teeth is a more accurate method. The coming of the temporary teeth first, and then the permanent ones; the development to maturity; the change in shape on account of wear; the coming of the cups in the teeth, and their wearing away afterward; and the change in the angle of meeting in the teeth, from straight together at five years to a sharp angle at twenty; all these are signs by which the experienced horseman can read accurately the age of a horse.

"It must be remembered that the permanent teeth, above and below, come in at the same time, says Prof. Potter, 'but the cups above do not wear away until all the cups below are gone. It must also be remembered that the changes begin at the center and continue at the rate of one pair a year; that a horse at maturity, which is at five years, has everything-that is, all his permanent teeth and all the cups. If one remembers this much he has the whole thing in a nutshell.'"

The 20th Century Wonder

Messrs. Woolley and Gernert, representing the United States Cashier Company were in town Monday demonstrating the Twentieth Century Wonder-which is a truly wonderful piece of mechanism, comprising in one machine a cash register, adding and paying machine for use in banks, street cars, railway stations, restaurants, pay rolls, in fact wherever coin or currency is used in large amounts. It acts automatically, paying one penny or in hundreds of dollars, by simply pressing a key. It adds, subtracts, and delivers the change on a purchase without the use of the human mind, giving change between any amount of purchase and amount tendered in payment. It will rank among the great inventions of the century and undoubtedly prove as profitable an investment as many of the other general utility inventions that have made fortunes for the shrewd investor, citing, for examples, the National Cash Register, the Burrough Adding Machine, American Radiator, Westinghouse Air Brake, Bell Telephone, and many others.

This is a business proposition that should appeal to the intelligent person who has much or little money to invest. Reference to Moody's Manual, a publication issued expressly for the benefit of investors, and which shows the earnings of all listed legitimate concerns, gives statistics as to the earnings of stock in the above cited companies. The United States Cashier Company's stock is bound to rank in the same class with these.
