OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Portland, Or., April 25 (Special) - Plans for an Oregon land show, to be held next March, are now being developed by the Portland Commercial Club. Manager Chapman believes the scheme would prove the best possible means of interesting colonists who reach Oregon at that time.

Exhibits would be gathered from all the orchard districts of the state and the exhibits would be not particular fruits but of the land itself and how it is cultivated, giving the prospective settler an object lesson in the care of the land and the successful methods of tillage.

It is thought the show will be participated in generally by the whole state and will give each section an opportunity to display its advantages.

Musicians of four states will gather at the third annual convention of the Northwest Music Teachers' Association, which will be held in Portland June 7, 8 and 9.

A program full of interest to the musical fraternity is being prepared, consisting of concerts, recitals, discussions, conferences and a banquet. The program is so arranged that it will not conflict with leading features of the Rose Festival, that will then be in progress.

It is not too early to start the annual fight against the usual timber losses, believes the Oregon Forest Fire Association, for this organization is in the field lining up timber owners to patrol their holdings during the dry season, seeking a more rigid enforcement of the law and co-operating generally in the good work. This association points out that 80 per cent of the value of the timber goes for labor and materials, thus giving the entire population a direct interest in preventing its destruction.

The Salem Board of Trade has arranged a unique boost for that city. Pastors of the local churches have been induced to devote one day to preaching the attractions of Salem and the first Sunday in May has been selected for the booster sermons.

Big stakes will be offered in the race meet of the Portland Fair & Livestock Association to be held next September. Approximately $25,000 will be distributed in prizes, according to the plans of the directors, who meet early in May to pass officially upon the program. It has been decided to offer again the $10,000 purse for the 2:12 trot, which aroused so much interest among horsemen last year. In addition, there will be two new classifications, the 2:08 pace and the 2:08 trot. Dates of the meet are September 4-9.

The sixty-eighth anniversary of the organization of the first civil government on American soil west of the Rocky Mountains will be celebrated at Champeog on May 2. This is an interesting historical observance, participated in by the pioneers who made the early history of the Oregon country. The Oregon Pioneer Association will have charge of the exercises. Many will attend from Portland and other Western cities will send delegations.

MONEY WELL SPENT.

Most men have difficulty in getting hold of money, while occasionally a man is heard of who has difficulty in getting rid of it. Some of the excessively rich individuals have devised various unique schemes for disposing of their wealth, but most of them have strings attached to them in the form of provisos, stipulations, regulations, ifs, ands, etc. These men pose as philanthropists and of course should be given due credit for the good they accomplish to others. It is, however, often a question in the public mind whether the public libraries, hero medals, bequests, etc., are not given as much for the purpose of self glory as for the real good they achieve.

But there is one man who has solved the problem of spending his surplus money in such a manner as will reflect everlasting credit to himself and result in incalculable benefit to his state and the people therein. This man is General Thomas Coleman Dupont, of Wilmington, Delaware—Gunpowder Dupont. According to S. nday's Oregonian, Mr. Dupont has offered to build a great boulevard the entire length of the state of Delaware, a distance of 163 miles, and turn it over to the state. General Dupont says he will give the construction of the boulevard his personal supervision, to see that the work is done right. Here are his views:

"Good roads, as we all know, will be of untold benefit to the state, to the farmers and those who frequent the public highways. In making the proposition I have made to build a state highway, I have no ulterior motive. My first thought in doing something for my state was that of building a hospital, then I considered schools. Finally, deciding that good roads would benefit the people more than anything else, I determined to make the offer of building a state highway and giving it to the state.

"Assuming that I have been more fortunate than some other people in the matter of finances," he says, "why should I not let other people profit thereby? What better public improvement could I make than a modern highway and boulevard?"

There are many wealthy public-spirited men in every state—in Oregon, for instance, who are looking for practical ways in which to spend their money; not particularly as a personal investment, but for the general good of the commonwealth, and General Dupont's public-spirited example in Delaware might well appeal to them, for surely no other state is in more urgent need of good roads, and funds with which to build them, than Oregon. Therefore, if there are any millionaires in the state with dollars burning holes in their pockets, there is no better way to spend them than on the roads of Oregon—for instance, the much-talked-of highway between Portland and The Dalles, thus erecting an everlasting monument to their generosity, and securing the undying gratitude of thousands of people.

ROAD IS FEASIBLE

That the proposed road along the Columbia River gorge between Bridal Veil and Hood River is one of the most important highways in Oregon and that it should be constructed without delay is the opinion of J. P. Newell, a civil engineer of Portland, who was the first to investigate the practicability of the road from an engineering standpoint, says the Oregonian.

Mr. Newell believes that the recommendations contained in the reviewers' report, submitted to the County Court, are commendable and should be followed out in time. Instead of having a 20-foot road all the way, however, he believes it would be practicable at first to build 10-foot or 12-foot roads at points where it is necessary to cut through the hillsides. At those places the road could be widened later when more money was available for such purposes.

It will not be necessary for Hood River County to spend over $40,000 to put that end of the road in shape, according to Mr. Newell's estimates. He says that the most costly work in Hood River County would be to cut down the steep hills at Ruthon and at Mitchell's Point. The other parts of the road between Hood River and the Multnomah County line could be constructed at nominal cost.

the people of Hood River County and other counties east of the Cascade Mountains as well to the people on this side to have this road built and opened as soon as possible," said Mr. Newell. "It will make one of the most scenic highways in the world and it will become the mecca for tourists. Besides, it will be valuable as a business artery between Eastern and Western Oregon."

Street Improvements Sure.

Mr. Hall reports that arrangements are practically completed for the opening up of the streets in the new addition and that the actual work will be commenced as soon as a few more of the lots have been sold.

These lots are selling at from $50 to $200 each and arrangements can now be made whereby prospective customers may pay from $10 to $25 down and the balance at the rate of $5 per month, or make equal quarterly or yearly payments.

As soon as the improvements are commenced there will be an advance in value in these lots of from 10 to 20 per cent.

For information in regards to prices, terms, etc., see or write D. D. HALL, Mosier, Oregon.

RAISIN DAY

April 29th, 1911.

The above date has been set apart by the people of California in which all are asked to join by eating raisins in form of "Raisin bread," or in what ever form is desired.

The object of this special day is to create a wide-spread raisin sentiment that will result in a greater demand for that fruit, and to direct the attention of all good house-wives to the excellence of the raisin as an article of food.

The good people of the Northwest are invited by their neighbors to participate in the pleasant custom and "Break" raisin bread on April 29th.

HOW MUCH GOOD

will ten dollars do you? Not much, you may say, in the way of bringing fortune or success, and then you will perhaps put it in your pocket and spend it in small amounts and when it's gone you don't know where it went.

Suppose instead you put that ten into a bank account and repeat the performance every month for a year and then put it to work for you. You want to keep that up very many years till you find that your money is doing a great deal of your work and that you are relieved of much of the daily grind.

It often costs the bank as much, and frequently more, to care for a small account than a large one, but we realize that our interests are identical with yours and the MOSIER VALLEY BANK is glad to help you in any way it can.

Ice Cream Festival.

The ladies of the Christian Church will give an Ice Cream Social in the Sturgeess Building on Saturday afternoon and evening, May 6th. Ice cream and cake will be served. The public is cordially invited. Come early and stay late.

Lee Evans and his sister, Mrs. Lou Graham, left yesterday morning for Aisea, where they will visit a few weeks with relatives and friends. Uncle Lee will no doubt have some tall fish yarns to spin when he gets home. He will probably visit in California before returning.

The Produce News says the trade in apples in New York is not so brisk, due to high prices. The consumptive demand has been curtailed by the prices and dealers say that not over one-fourth the amount of apples is being bought that would be taken if the prices were 50 per cent lower.
