A big game of base ball will be pulled off Sunday on the local diamond here Sunday between the Mosier boys and a team composed of the members of the O. W. R. & N Co., of Portland. Come out and yell for your home team.

Mosier's Mystery.

What is the mysterious "thing" that makes a noise something between a sore-headed grizzly and a certain Mosier man trying to sing bass, and which sends delightful chills chasing themselves up and down the spine of another certain Mosier man who goes boat riding in Mosier creek, and causes his hair to stand out "like quills upon the fretful porcupine." The question has been asked by a number and answered by a few. The man in the boat got right up against the noise the other night and wished he had a gatling gun, or was safe at home in his little bed. He declared it was a seal or a sealion, or some other dangerous "varmint" and was organizing a posse of bold and desperate characters like unto himself to go forthwith, at once, immediately if not sooner and all together and capture it that its remains might adorn the Smithsonian Institute at Washington. He considered its death absolutely necessary, to permit Roger to go swimming in safety. Another man, seeking for publicity items, heard the mysterious noise and, thinking it some neighbor's cow in distress, started out to organize a lend-a-hand society and pull the noise out of the cow—no—pull the cow out of the mud. Another said it was a loon, but he probably was "loony" from planting cabbages in the bottoms, during the recent hot weather. One man declares (and he isn't a Frenchman either) that "it" is an Eastern bull frog that has heard of Mosier's wonderful climate and rode the blind baggage out here in order to escape the terrific heat back home and "croak" in peace. Whatever it is, it has had the effect of terrifying the mosquitos and driving hordes of them up town, where their wings and stings can be heard and felt all night.

SUDDEN DEATH OF E. GRANLUND

The startling announcement was made early last Monday morning that Eric Granlund, an old and respected pioneer resident of this section, was found dead in the loft of his barn at his ranch East of town. Death was apparently caused from heart failure.

Mr. Granlund had gone to the barn in the early morning to feed his stock and it was while he was in the hay mow that he succumbed, as he was found later lying on a pile of grain sacks. He evidently felt weak and faint and lay down to rest and there passed away without a struggle.

Eric Granlund was a native of Sweden born Feb. 5, 1844. In 1875 he was married to Anna Erickson who, with two daughters of the five children torn to them survive him. He came to America in 1888, locating first in the Willamette Valley, then coming to Mosier in 1890, where he has since lived.

The funeral services were held in Immanuel Church and conducted by Rev. K. H. Sickafosse, of the Christian Church. Intirment was in Odd Fellows cemetery.

At Immanuel Church.

Rev. J. V. Milligan, of Portland, gave two inspiring addresses last Sunday at the Immanuel Church. The attendance was good, both morning and evening. The members of the Christian Church and Sunday School had been invited to meet with them in the evening to enjoy the address on the International Sunday School Convention, recently held at San Francisco. The convention lasted eight days, so Mr. Milligan confined his talk to two of the many great things which were discussed there—Missions and Organized Adult Bible Class Work. Mr. Milligan has been here before and has a warm place in the hearts of all who know him.
