ASTORIA CENTENNIAL

Astoria, Oregon. - July 26: Furniture enough to fill 29 big cars has been purchased in Astoria by the residents who are planning to have everything in shape for the Astoria Centennial crowd which is due with the opening of the pageant on August 10. Five carloads of beds have been shipped into this place and four carloads are known to be on the way.

Everybody in Astoria is preparing for the greatest crowd that ever visited this place. The merchants are wearing great smiles because of the extensive purchases by the housewives of new bed linen, glassware and fancy articles to decorate for the visitors. At this time more than 6,000 persons may be housed in comfort in addition to the capacity of the Beach Hotels and the Astoria Hotels. Two school houses are being converted into hotels, and the old Favel House is being reopened under the direction of the Astoria Centennial.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher will visit Oregon next month, inspecting the reclamation projects under way here. He will learn of conditions prevailing in respect to forest reserves, vacant government lands and the other matters under his control. He will also visit other Pacific Coast sections and Alaska. British Columbia is interested in opening the Columbia River to navigation as far as Ravelstoke, B. C., and then on to Lake Windermere, not far from the source of that stream. Oregon and Washington are aiding to make the river navigable from its mouth to the Canadian border.

juried spuds? Some "old timer." The spuds show the result of proper care. The Gobersons have just harvested a splendid crop of hay. Mr. Stoltz is cutting about 200 cords of No. 1 pine wood.

Tis better late than never, so here goes some of the 4th of July doings at Greenwood. About ten o'clock the people began to assemble in Pine Flat, coming on foot, horse back and in vehicles. By noon 50 were present and the ladies spread a dinner on a table beneath the shade of stately pines, where a refreshing breeze gently stirred the deep foliage above our heads and reached down to all with its soothing influence, while we did justice to that bounteous and well prepared dinner. We had Adam's clear, cold, crystal ale from Mrs. Goberson's homestead well. We also had ice cold lemonade and oranges for all. After dinner a volunteer program was rendered, speaking, singing and reading, children and "grown ups" taking part.

Mr. Lee Hunter kindly gave us assistance in music with his violin. He also gave us an interesting reading, subject "Old Glory." Mr. Cooper spoke a humorous piece also, which was much enjoyed by all, and it surely "brought the house down." Miss Anna Goberson delivered an essay that deserves special mention. Its sentiments showed so plainly, and briefly the growth and needs of government from '76" till now, and also the duties of all who desire a better condition of national management. To those who see "between the lines, this production meant volumes.

Echoes From Greenwood.

Greenwood is moving along in usual normal manner. Notwithstanding the intense heat, improvements are going on among the entire vicinity. New buildings are going up, slashing being done and government lines being established around many ranches, our worthy county surveyor manipulating the compass.

Mr. Brown has erected a new stable, wood house and work shop. Mr. Brown and Peter Olsen are the architects, and have done a commendable job. Mr. Ole Olsen is also building and improving his nice ranch. His "spuds" are in splendid condition and he cultivates them with a modern two horse cultivator. Who said cultivating in-

Agriculture as a Science.

Washington, D. C., July 12. - Hail to the tiller of the soil. He has won the respect of the world. Perhaps you have noticed that it isn't so common to deery his occupation as it used to be before Uncle Sam discovered it to be a science. Now young men are flocking to the agricultural schools and colleges and many of them are graduating into professorship, or into positions as experts with the government. One of the latter has just returned to Washington after spending two months in Spain and Sicily investigating lemon growing. He is G. Howard Powell, whose work for the Department of Agriculture in the investigation of causes of fruit decay in cold storage and in transit attracted such wide attention. The citrus fruit growers of California held his talents in such esteem that they tried to get him to go out there. When they got up to an offer of $10,000 a year salary he succumbed, and he is now secretary and manager of the Citrus Protective League of California, a model business organization of agriculturists, which has been fighting for a tariff on lemons that will permit the industry to survive. Having secured that tariff, the organization is now combating the organized campaign of Sicilian importers to have it reduced. The latter have raised a big fund to influence public opinion in this country and to affect legislation.

Investigate Express Companies.

Washington, D. C., July 12. - It is news to most people that the Interstate Commerce Commission has undertaken the investigation of the express companies. The announcement that this policy has just been decided on is misleading, for the Commission has had men in the field for months making a searching inquiry into the business methods of the companies. As a result of this investigation, it is believed, the carriers under investigation filed new schedules which are probably intended to meet some of the more serious complaints regarding the manner of conducting the express business. It has been contended for a long time that the express monopoly was making excessive profits. It will gratify the public if something can be done to insure more equitable charges for service and better protection to the customers of the companies. Geo. S. Hale arrived in town last night and is visiting his son, D. D. Hail.
